Black Panther Demonstrations—West and East

San Francisco police remove a follower of Black Panther Huey Newton as he and seven others demonstrated outside a State Court of Appeals building (L). While they demonstrated, militant leader Newton argued before the court that he should be freed from prison. Meanwhile, in New York, mounted policemen are on guard as Black Panthers demonstrate outside Federal Court Building during the seventh day of pre-trial hearings for 13 Panthers charged with conspiring to bomb public buildings and facilities. An angry Judge John Murtaugh ordered the courtroom cleared of spectators after they shouted slogans as the defendants were brought in. (UPI TELEPHOTOS)

Flatbush Boy Killed

By WALTER S. CLARK

TOWN OF ULSTER

State Police had the sad task of going from door-to-door along Flatbush Road in this township for a few hours Wednesday night asking families if their boy was missing, until they came upon the home of a 13-year-old boy killed in a traffic accident.

Anthony Mezzacappa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Mezzacappa of RD 1, Box 368, Flatbush Road was fatally injured shortly before 8:30 p.m. when a northbound car struck his bicycle and hurled him to the pavement on Route 32.

A report of BCI Investigator Roger Gardner and Trooper Bruce McNab of the Kingston State Police Zone Headquarters, noted that the bicycle on which the boy had been riding was not equipped with lights or reflectors when it was hit and smashed.

Peter Deblitz, 28, of Route 28, Kingston, operator of the vehicle, told authorities that he was northbound on the highway not far from the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge when he pulled out to pass another vehicle. Deblitz apparently didn't see the bicycle until it was too late, police said.

The car struck the bicycle which was in the southbound lane heading in a northerly direction — toward the boy's home.

Authorities noted that the victim of the mishap was thrown from the bicycle to the pavement.

Attendants from Fatum's Ambulance were called and the injured youth was given emergency treatment and rushed to Kingston Hospital. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser said examination at the hospital disclosed the boy died of multiple internal injuries. He withheld a verdict.

State Police officials said the investigation of the death has not been completed. They reported that possible action is pending.

Investigator Gardner and Trooper McNab went to the scene of the accident to investigate. The identity of the victim was not immediately determined.

The troopers began a house-to-house visit of the neighborhood, asking members of families "Is your boy missing?" Late last night they stopped at the Mezzacappa home and asked the question. The answer was there. Anthony was not home.

Further investigation disclosed the identity of the boy.

It was Ulster County's first traffic fatality of 1970.

3 Greene Suicides

GREENVILLE

In a bizarre development it was learned that three youths took their own lives recently in Greene County, according to Coroner Leland S. Cunningham.

Verdicts of suicide by hanging have been reported by the coroner, who investigated the apparently unrelated deaths of a 15-year-old boy and two 16-year-old youths in separate incidents.

The most recent hanging occurred on Tuesday. The victim was identified as 15-year-old Michael James Kiley, of Coxsackie Road, this community, according to reports confirmed by investigators.

On Feb. 7, it was confirmed, 16-year-old James Howard Soderblom, of Durham, president of the junior class at Cairo Central School, ended his life by hanging from a limb of a tree on the farm owned and operated by his parents.

Last Nov. 29, a 16-year-old New York City youth, who was not identified by authorities, was found hanging in a shack near an East Durham home where he had been visiting for the Thanksgiving weekend.

Coroner Cunningham said the deaths of the two Greene county youths are still under investigation.

The case of the New York City youth apparently has been closed with an official finding of suicide. Authorities gave no motive for that death, although they emphasized that neither of the three cases had any connection with the others.

The Durham youth was discovered hanging by a belt from the limb of a tree early last week, and investigation was conducted by Capt. John McCarthy, BCI Investigator Joseph Valicenti and Sergeant R. W. Miller of Troop F which is headquartered in Middletown.

It was reported that the Greenville boy had been injured in a highway accident several months ago, and in recent weeks had been under psychiatric treatment. He was a freshman at the Greenville Central School.

Authorities said that the Durham and Greenville youths knew each other, but investigation disclosed no indication that their deaths were related.

Coroner Cunningham said no notes were found during investigation of the three cases.

The bizarre incidents shocked this entire area, as the two local victims were well known among young people and each were members of highly respected families of the communities where they lived.

Rosendale Village—Dissolution Move

By NANCY SULLIVAN

VILLAGE OF ROSENDALE

"I've been waiting all night to come on," stated Richard Priest, an IBM clerk specialist and initiator of a controversial petition which calls for the question of the dissolution of the village of Rosendale to appear on the March ballot.

Priest explained to the board that if it would make the resolution for the question of dissolution to be put on the ballot, he would not have to present his petition containing signatures of 142 names representing over one third of the total value of assessed property in the village.

Republican Trustee Kenneth Smith made a motion that the people be allowed to choose whether they wanted the village dissolved or not. Democratic Village Trustee William Ritter did not second the motion so Priest had to present the petition to the board.

Trustee Ritter said that he felt that the people "should know the advantages and disadvantages" of dissolution. He said that he was of the opinion that it doesn't matter whether the village remains incorporated or dissolves.

Joseph Reid, a former Rosendale mayor, said that he had looked into the question of dissolution before. He said that according to his attorneys, it would cost the village from $3,000 to $5,000 for dissolution and the village would also have to pay its own debts.

Several people attending the meeting suggested that a group of interested persons form a committee and work with the board to get the facts and figures on dissolution. The committee will meet Feb. 14 at 1:30 at which time it will dig up the facts and figures, possibly to be presented at a public hearing or information meeting.

Priest said, "I intend to campaign for dissolution" with the people he had been working with. He said that he will try to convince the people that dissolution is the best thing for the village of Rosendale by presenting to them the information he has obtained.

Daniel McMonagle, village attorney, suggested to the two board members that the case of the Village of Rosendale vs. Joseph Reid be dropped from the supreme court calendar.

Reid is allegedly in violation of the trailer ordinance. He claims that he had the necessary petition with the 50 signatures to have a trailer.

William P. Curran, after resigning as mayor of Rosendale, had the case put on the calendar of the supreme court without the knowledge of either of the trustees. McMonagle said that the case should be dropped so that the village is not held responsible for Curran's action.

Ritter made a motion to have the case dropped. Smith would not second the motion but said it should be tabled until the new board takes office.

A representative from Servidone Construction Corporation complained because the village still owed them $800 for snow removal. Ritter said that money would have to be transferred from other funds to pay for the bill and he didn't want to do this at this meeting.

The representative from Servidone said that there was "no hesitation" when the village asked them to plow, to which Ritter said, "I didn't think Mr. Servidone would push us this hard." Ritter said that he and Smith would meet with the village treasurer to check the accounts and see where the $800 could be transferred from. He promised that Servidone would be "paid within this month."

Reid, who attended last night's meeting, said that legal action should be taken on Curran's statement that when he (Curran) took office he discovered that vouchers had been thrown away, that the village was broke and that some employes had gone without pay. Reid said that the statements (by Curran) were all "lies" which were publicized and never corrected by any of the village officials.

Also a Divorce for Gilpatrics

Jackie and Purloined Letters

NEW YORK (UPI)—They were the kind of "thank you's" any young matron might have written to a family friend — three brief notes and one long gossipy letter.

But the letters were written by Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis to Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy defense secretary for President John F. Kennedy and a frequent escort for his widow.

And their theft from a locked file in Gilpatric's office, discovered when they were offered for sale by a dealer in autographs, was enough to set Jackie watchers agog once more.

As if this wasn't sufficient, Gilpatric's third wife happened to file papers declaring their legal separation the same day the purloined letters came to light.

But Mrs. Gilpatric added fuel to the fires of speculation by telling a reporter for the Chicago Daily News that her husband and Mrs. Onassis were "very, very close, I have my own feelings about that," and then refusing to say whether this was the reason for her marital problems.

A spokesman for Mrs. Onassis agreed about the close friendship but, she added, any innuendo was "so untrue and sort of unfair for them both."

Charles Hamilton, who deals in autographs from stylish premises just off Fifth Avenue, said he had every reason to believe the Jackie letters, written between 1963 and 1968, were legally for sale.

They were brought to him, Hamilton said, by a lawyer formerly associated with Gilpatric's Wall Street firm, Cravath, Swaine & Moore. The "agent" signed a paper stating he was legally empowered to sell them and "appeared delighted" at the prospect of publicity about them. He said he had two more he might want to sell later.

When Gilpatric telephoned Monday night to ask for their return, Hamilton said he would prefer to turn them over to the district attorney's office because he wanted to be sure the thief was prosecuted.

Hamilton said when the theft was revealed the lawyer gave him a check for $500 to repay an advance on the letters, worth $500 to $1,000 each at auction.

A spokesman for District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said an investigation was under way to determine if a crime had been committed. If the finding is affirmative, the case would go before a New York County grand jury.

20-Inch Snow in Chautauqua, Two Storm Deaths in Rochester

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow tapered to flurries across Western New York today in the wake of a wide-ranging storm that dumped up to 20 inches of snow in some areas and forced the closing of all highways in two counties.

The flurries were expected to persist into Friday, the Weather Bureau said, accompanied by temperatures in the teens.

The storm, which began Tuesday night, claimed two lives in Rochester Wednesday as residents battled an eight-inch fall of heavy, slushy snow.

Most of the state was spared all but cold temperatures and light snow. The U. S. Weather Bureau at Albany noted early today that the state is feeling only the backwash of a Canadian storm.

Winds whipping across Lake Ontario piled up from three to six inches of snow in areas south of that lake.

This lake activity seemed to shift eastward during the night into the Western Mohawk Valley.

Only snow flurries are forecast for most of the state. The Western Mohawk Valley had a forecast of three to six additional inches of snow today.

Buffalo and its suburbs escaped the brunt of the storm. By early today, only a bit over four inches of snow was recorded and all roads were open.

The 20-inch fall was reported in portions of Chautauqua county, where more than a dozen central school systems ordered today's sessions cancelled.

School closings also were reported in Allegany County and in metropolitan Rochester.

The sheriffs of Livingston and Wyoming Counties ordered all highways there closed to traffic early Wednesday night.

Special caution was urged for motorists using the state Thruway from as far east as Herkimer and to the Pennsylvania line. The superhighway remained open, however.

Winds exceeding 20 miles an hour added to the generally bad conditions as they caused drifting and blowing of snow.

Blowing snow caused intermittent shutdowns of the Rochester - Monroe County Airport Wednesday night as visibility dipped below the minimum permitted for landings. About half of the commercial flights bound for Rochester during the evening were diverted to other cities.

Also in Rochester, Alphonse Cilano, 66, and John Rodriques, 63, suffered fatal heart attacks while shoveling snow. Rodriques, of Hartford, Conn., was visiting relatives and was handling the clean-up task for them when stricken, police said.

In Wayne County, east of Rochester, three children suffered minor injures when their school bus struck the rear of an automobile in the Town of Ontario. A school bus-car crash also occurred in neighboring Ontario County, but no one was hurt.

Saccoman Not Seeking Post

KINGSTON

In a correction on a story carried in Wednesday's edition The Freeman regarding Democrat candidates for nomination in the November election, Kingston attorney Jospeh D. Saccoman has said he has no interest in seeking office.

Saccoman had been reported as a possible contender to oppose incumbent county treasurer, Fred H. DuBois. The local lawyer, however, denies he had ever considered any such move.

Carpino vs. KURA

Hearing Continues in Land Case

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The case of Vincent and Joan Carpino of 61 Murphy Street versus the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, which already has more than 10 hours of testimony on the record, is expected to conclude Monday afternoon at the county courthouse.

The case is being heard by Referee Joseph D. Saccoman, a former Kingston city judge.

It was brought about by the agency's moving for immediate possession of Carpino's home and three acres of land for the uptown urban renewal project.

Carpino's attorney, Joseph D. Hill of the law firm of Gaffney and Hill, has been attempting to prove that the inclusion of Murphy Street (and Taylor Street) in the uptown plan was "illegal and arbitrary", that the agency's claim of urgent need of the Carpino land is "self imposed" and that the agency bargained in bad faith in offering Carpino $27,000 for his property.

The agency, represented by Harry Gold, has asserted that it is acting under a plan approved by the city planning board, the Common Council, state and federal officials say that Carpino's property is part of that plan and that its taking is legal.

The agency, in moving for immediate possession has testified that a public improvement construction contract has been let (in October of last year) and that the Carpino property is needed to complete that project.

Hill has been trying to establish that there were at least two uptown urban renewal plans. He is asserting that a plan was drawn up for the commercial section and submitted to the Federal government for approval but was rejected because it did not include enough residences. He says that the inclusion of Murphy and Taylor Streets in the revised plan satisfied the Federal critieria for residential properties and was approved.

Hill has questioned urban renewal director James G. Connors and former urban renewal advisor Alexander Yosman extensively in an attempt to prove his allegation that there were two plans, one without the Murphy-Taylor Street area included. To date there have been no maps or plans produced to show an application submitted for an urban renewal project comprised solely of the business district (without Murphy Street).

The matter of urgency has also been extensively questioned by Hill. Testimony shows that Carpino was first offered a price for his property by the agency in late 1967 and was not contacted again until May of last year. Carpino was tendered another offer (for $27,000) in September of last year.

The Carpino property will be used as part of a flood control project. It will also have two large drainage pipes running under part of it and will also be the site of a small park.

Hill and Carpino contend that Carpino's property is worth more than the $27,000 federally approved price offered by the agency. Hill's attempts to offer as evidence prices offered to Carpino by a private firm in 1961 were objected to by Gold and sustained by Referee Saccoman as irrelevant.

The case is expected to be concluded before Saccoman in the county courthouse Monday afternoon.

Auto Industry Speaks Against Internal Combustion Bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Spokesmen for the major automakers say a proposal to ban the internal combustion engine in the state within four years might hinder, rather than help, the battle against air pollution.

The industry representatives stated their side Wednesday as the joint legislative committees on public health and transportation opened hearings on two bills to cut down air pollution from automobiles.

Despite industry opposition, both committee chairmen, Sen. Norman F. Lent, R-East Rockaway, and Sen. Edward Speno, R - East Meadow, said they would seek to pass the multi-sponsored measures as a way of forcing improvements.

One bill would prohibit the sale or registration of new cars with internal combustion reciprocating engines after Jan. 1, 1975, while the other would eliminate lead additives from gasoline by 1974.

While industry spokesmen said they needed time for further research, and that the internal combustion engine might prove to be the cleanest and most economical engine, the chairmen said the problem was too critical to delay.

The hearings opened the same week that President Nixon, in an announced major crackdown on pollution, called on industry to produce a pollution-free car in five years. The President said an alternative to the gasoline engine must be ready.

"The people of New York State simply can't afford to wait," Lent said, for the industry to improve its product.

"This proposal is a direct challenge to the $25 billion a year automotive industry to do better than to promise to try," he said.

"We have to find a way to use our status symbol, the automobile, without totally contaminating the air necessary for life," Speno said.

"Now we're beyond the talking stage," Speno said, "and we're in the acting stage."

A main witness was California state Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, whose bill to ban the engine in California by 1975 passed the state Senate last year, but was killed in the Assembly. It has been re-introduced this year.

Asked if he thought a pollution-free auto could be developed by 1975, Petris said, "Yes. I'm convinced that it is feasible and it will be done."

On the industry side, D.A. Jensen of the Automobile Manufacturers Association said the bill "will not help in the fight against air pollution and instead may hinder progress.

"By outlawing the internal combustion reciprocating engine, you would remove the main contender in the search for a virtually emission - free power source," Jensen said.

Dr. Fred W. Bowditch, representing General Motors Corp., said the nation's largest automaker was "irrevocably committed" to ending pollution, but has yet to find an economical way of doing so.

On the question of eliminating lead, Dr. Dayton H. Clewell of the Mobil Oil Co. said the step would lower the octane rating of gasoline, and the auto industry therefore needs time to develop an engine to compensate for it.

Rolison Favors Highway Bill

ALBANY

State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. (R-Dutchess-Ulster) announced that he will co-sponsor a new town highway assistance bill which will provide over 250 million dollars over the next decade to protect and upgrade roads in the rural areas of New York State.

Senator Rolison said, "In my senatorial district over 271 miles of roads have been improved between 1952 and 1968 with an expenditure of over $2,421,436. This cost was shared by both town and state government."

The Senator said that while the Erwin Plan, which will expire in 1972, limited a town to reconstructing rural roads, it did so with a very unrealistic cost sharing basis. The State shared in the cost ranging from 25 per cent to 75 per cent of the approved expenditures.

According to Rolison, this new town highway proposal would aid towns by doubling construction assistance and increasing the aid ceiling for eligible road construction from $9,000 to $18,000 per mile, with slightly higher construction standards. Also, the state would share resurfacing cost of roads, previously built under Article 8A and subsequent construction, up to $4,500 a mile. In addition, bridges up to 25 feet in length would also qualify for aid.

The state's share would not be less than 25 per cent, nor more than 75 per cent of the total approved expenditures for all projects up to $36,000, by any town in any one year.

HISTORICAL (Hysterical) MEAT FACT—

At one time, not too long ago, Chop Beef was the most expensive meat dinner in a restaurant (look at some old menus circa 1800-1900). This was so because the beef had to be chopped by the hand cleaver method or primitive hand turned machine. Good tender meat had to be used to make Chop Beef palatable. Today, modern machinery has made the once very expensive chop beef, everyones favorite meat. The one problem remains — unscrupulous packers, markets and merchants will grind anything that looks like meat and sell it to the public, some even use additives for color and preserving.

Vote Now Set Monday

Blaine Delay—Bid for Support

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —The Assembly's expected approval of the Blaine Amendment repeal has been put off until Monday while a provision is added to allow taxpayer suits against state aid to non-public schools.

The addition was seen as a way of seeking greater public support for the repeal, which must be approved by the voters to finally clear the way for state assistance to such schools. The suits could challenge programs enacted through the repeal.

The repeal vote was scheduled for Wednesday, but was put off when the sponsor, Assemblyman John H. Terry, R-Syracuse, proposed the change.

The Assembly is now expected to take up Blaine repeal Monday. Even though the measure passed the Senate earlier this week, it will have to be re-passed in its amended form next week.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea said the amendment allowing citizens to sue to block illegal use of state aid was a sound proposal.

"There are many people in this state who would not vote for Blaine repeal without an assurance they will have the right to sue if they have a grievance," Duryea said.

Like all constitutional amendments, Blaine repeal must be approved again by the legislature next year, and then go to the public in a referendum in November of 1971.

New York State is now one of two in the nation that does not allow citizens to sue government for grievances.

The amendment proposed by Terry would allow such suits only in cases that arise because of the repeal of the Blaine Amendment.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, the prime mover in the drive to repeal the Blaine Amendment indicated he had mixed emotions about the Terry amendment. Brydges said he was undecided about whether or not he would accept the amended repealer in the Senate.

Democrats Denounce Rocky's Transit Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —Governor Rockefeller and Republican legislative leaders, re-taking the initiative in the campaign to improve commuter service, are backing a $30.7 million emergency loan program for trains, subways and buses.

Announcing the program at a news conference Wednesday, the governor claimed it could make "an effective difference for the long-suffering commuter within two months."

Democratic leaders, whose own loan program was rejected by the GOP majority two weeks ago, immediately denounced the plan as "an election year charade" and one that short-changed the New York City subways to benefit the commuter railroads.

"It is obvious the governor's $31 million proposal is a campaign expenditure which will have to be listed on Governor Rockefeller's campaign committee report of expenditures filed with the Secretary of State," Minority Leaders Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Stanley Steingut said in a joint statement.

The Democratic leaders said recently when they proposed loans from the capital construction fund they were told by GOP leaders the cupboard was bare.

"Suddenly the governor found $31 million," they said.

Under the proposal, the first instance money would be split:

—$10,350,000 for the New York City subway system.

—$7,292,000 for the Penn Central Railroad's Harlem-Hudson division.

—$6 million for upstate transportation facilities.

—$5.5 million for the Long Island Rail Road.

—$1,050,000 for the New Haven Railroad.

—$500,000 for the Erie Lackawanna Railroad.

Rockefeller said the money could be advanced to the various transportation units as a loan to be repaid at some later date.

The governor explained that the money could be used to clean, paint, refurbish buses, train cars and stations and improve service.

In anticipation of favorable action, Rockefeller advised administering agencies, such as the State Transportation Department and the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, to prepare for prompt implementation of the program.

The governor said the emergency funds were in addition to appropriations proposed in his executive budget, which includes $600 million for capital construction improvements on the New York City transit system.

Road Boss Resigning

Esopus Moves on Rail Debris

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

PORT EWEN

The Town of Esopus is taking affirmative action to force the Penn Central Railroad to clear its right-of-way in West Park which is littered with debris and wrecked freight cars from a derailment more than a year ago.

The Town Board at Wednesday night's meeting authorized the town attorney Louis M. Klein to prepare a summons to be issued through Town Justice Charles Montafia for an appearance Feb. 17 to answer charges that the railroad is in violation of the town's Local Law No. 1 relating to abandonment of junk on private property.

Supervisor George H. Freer has indicated that in his correspondence with the railroad no immediate solution was proposed and that the only recourse was to charge them with violation of the junk law.

Residents of the West Park area have shown concern in regard to abandoned food cargo along the right-of-way, which has attracted rodents and created an unsightly condition.

Mercier Leaving

Superintendent of Highways Paul Mercier submitted his resignation effective March 31. He had been with the Highway Department for nearly 20 years.

The Town Board is considering several applications for the $8,000 position which includes expenses, and will meet in special session Thursday, Feb. 19 at 7:30 p. m. at the Town Hall, Port Ewen. At this time a decision on an appointment is expected.

Supervisor Freer emphasized that this is not an executive session and the meeting is open to the public.

The Town Board indicated concern in regard to the progress of plans for the arterial highway proposed to run through the township and connect with the new Rondout Creek Bridge.

Supervisor Freer said he would contact the State Transportation Department and ask for a meeting with members of the Town Board to determine the progress of the project.

Suggest Meeting

Councilman Daniel Terpening, as a member of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce suggested that the Town Board meet with representatives of Kingston Common Council to discuss the arterial project. The Town Board agreed and Terpening was advised to make the necessary arrangements.

Reports of dogs running at large and killing deer brought up a discussion on enactment of a dog ordinance. The Town Board agreed that a committee should study this possibility and it was turned over to the committee studying town ordinances and local laws. The committee includes Town Justices Montafia and John O. Beaver, Councilmen Terpening and Oscar Lambert and Town Attorney Klein and the supervisor.

District 7 Legislator Lewis Kirschner, who was in attendance, was asked to bring the matter of a county dog ordinance before the county board.

Other committees named were: Town Property Insurance —Justice Montafia, Lambert, Terpening, Beaver and the supervisor: Landfill Study—Terpening, Montafia, Lambert, Edward Johnson and Freeman D. Lewis, both of West Park, who are on the Citizens Landfill Committee and the supervisor.

The Town Board reaffirmed Supervisor Freer's proposal to replace the town's voting machines on a five year plan. One was purchased last year and the board authorized the start of negotiations for the purchase of another this year.

Freer reported that cost studies and detailed plans are completed for drainage corrections in the Bowne and Smith Street areas and that a meeting is scheduled with Brinnier and Larios, engineers on Wednesday, Feb. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall. The meeting is open to the public. The project is expected to cost $3,950.

The supervisor said he received a communication from the Hudson River Valley Commission to set up a meeting with the chief regional officer Louis Abate for a discussion of waterfront problems including derelict barges. More than 200 attended the meeting.

The Thruway in 1969

Safest Record in 10 Years

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)— The New York State Thruway chalked up its safest record in 10 years during 1969.

R. Burdell Bixby, authority chairman, said today the fatality rate for the 559-mile toll highway last year was 1.64 deaths for every 100 - million miles of travel. In 1968, the fatality rate was 2.12.

Bixby said the latest figures compare with 4.9 for all state highways, and 2.99 for the interstate system of national and defense highways.

Bixby credited the improved safety to a continuing enforcement campaign by state police, the highway maintenance program and installation of guide railings.

Last year there were 55 fatal accidents on the Thruway in which 64 persons died. This is not only the best record in 10 years, Bixby said, but the second best in 15 years.

Assemblyman Bell's Stance— Gradual Lowering of Vote Age

ALBANY

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell took a position today in favor of lowering the voting age to 20 in 1971 and subsequently lowering it further every six years until the age requirement is 18, if the proposal meets approval in public referendums.

Bell today also announced the results of his legislative questionnaire from which he said he received good response.

With regard to ghe voting age, Bell said the proposal which he and 33 other Republican assemblymen have endorsed, places the responsibility for gaining approval of the lower voting age squarely on the younger people themselves. "It will test their interest, their involvement and their responsibility. It will answer the clear call for constructive alternative to the negativism and hopelessness that characterizes too many of our youth today," he said.

"Yet," he adds, "it is measured, it permits time to evaluate and to adjust. It allows the populace to determine on the basis of performance at exactly which point the age should be set.

"To those who say they want faster progress, let us remind them of the 193 years without change. To those opposed to any change, let us ask at least an opportunity for a vote of the people."

Bell's poll of Ulster County voters on a variety of questions showed that of those responding 52 per cent favored a cut in state spending for education, 42 per cent favored an increase and six per cent were undecided.

The response to welfare spending was very one sided, he said, 71 per cent want more cuts in welfare, and 19 per cent think benefits should be increased, while 10 per cent registered as undecided.

There were very few undecided, less than one per cent, when it came to registering long guns and licensing owners. Some 56 per cent are opposed to registering and licensing proposals and 43 per cent are in favor of them.

The response on the Blaine Amendment and the general question concerning public funds being used for non-public school children was mixed. While 28 per cent favored repeal of the Blaine Amendment and 27 per cent were for retention of it. 45 per cent checked in as undecided. Those responding, however, did favor by a margin of better than two to one direct state aid to pupils in non-public schools and favored allowing pupils in non-puplic schools to take special courses in public school buildings.

Other Statistics

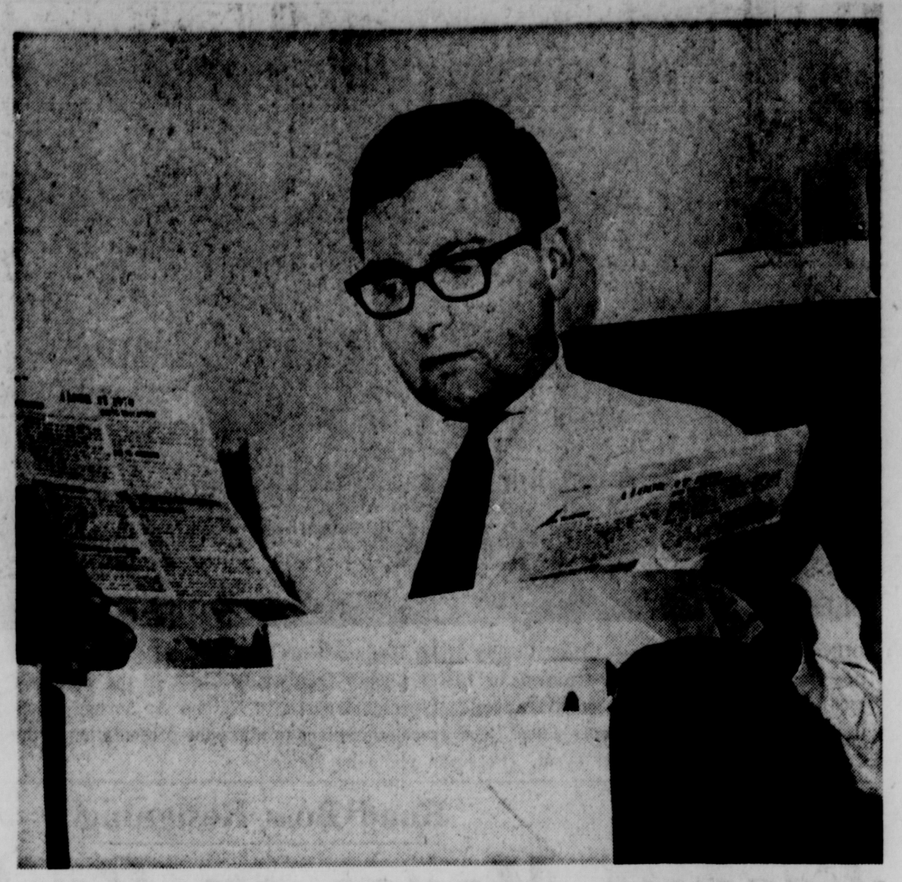

The most lopsided returns involved parental responsibility for vandalism by children and banks sending out unsolicited credit cards. The count was better than 16 to 1 to hold parents responsible for the vandalism of their children and better than 15 to 1 to ban unsolicited distribution of credit cards.

About 68 per cent of those responding feel all persistent pesticides such as DDT should be banned immediately in order to better protect the environment.

The response on the several questions involving repeal and revision of the Abortion Law were mixed. About four out of every five answering favored softening of the existing law. There seemed to be general approval of abortions for unwed mothers under 16 years of age and where rape or incest are involved. These ideas were approved by substantial margins running, better than two to one. Responses on the other questions invlolving physical or mental deformity, emotional or mental incapacity to care for a child and making abortion a private matter between a mother and her doctor were all fairly evenly divided with no perceptible patterns emerging.

Softening of penalties for possession of marijuana was opposed by a count of better than two to one.

About five out of every six responding favored the establishing of a state park for general recreation purposes at Lake Minnewaska in southern Ulster County.

Evacuation Underway At Resort

VAL D'ISERE, France (UPI) —A relief column of 10 buses made the arduous uphill trek into this avalanche-besieged Alpine resort today to begin evacuating the estimated 6,000 tourists stranded since Tuesday's killer slide.

The blizzard that triggered avalanches sealing off Val d'Isere for the best part of two days subsided and the temperature dropped—two signs that gave officials hope the threat of further slides was over.

Road and rescue workers cleared a one-lane road into this ski town late Wednesday and a convoy of trucks pushed through from Bourg St. Maurice to take out the bodies of Tuesday's 39 victims and to evacuate 200 children.

The buses took 2½ hours to make the 20-mile trip from Bourg St. Maurice this morning and officials said they would make as many roundtrip runs as possible so long as the weather holds out.

Tourists got word the road would be open for two hours if they wished to leave in their cars, provided their cars survived the 100-yard-wide slide that smashed a youth hostel Tuesday. Sixty persons were injured in the disaster.

Among the first to leave today were youths who had escaped injury when the slide crashed into the youth hostel smashing a gaping hole in its stone side. They were moved to an emergency shelter in a theater.

French Interior Minister Raymond Marcellin led friends and relatives in mourning the dead Wednesday night in a chapel in Bourg St. Maurice. Six of the bodies have not yet been identified.

In a statement on his arrival there, Marcellin denied contentions in the French press the disaster could have been prevented. But he reported a government inquiry had begun.

"It was a case of misfortune and fatality," he said. "We have every reason to believe for the moment, that the cause of the drama cannot be found outside an unfortunate combination of physical and atmospheric phenomena impossible to foresee."

Carswell's Fate To Committee Next Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Judiciary Committee meets Monday to decide the immediate fate of the Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell and of a proposed constitutional amendment for direct election of the president.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the chairman, has summoned the 17-member committee into secret session (10:30 a.m. EST), a day earlier than planned. No reason was given, but on Tuesday, the committee's regular meeting day the Senate itself meets at 11 a.m. and a committee objection would bar a meeting while the Senate was in session.

Eastland and Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., senior GOP members of the committee, hoped to get a favorable vote on ordering the nomination to the Senate floor. The nomination, however, was tied to a proposal for the committee to vote April 24 on the electoral reform amendment.

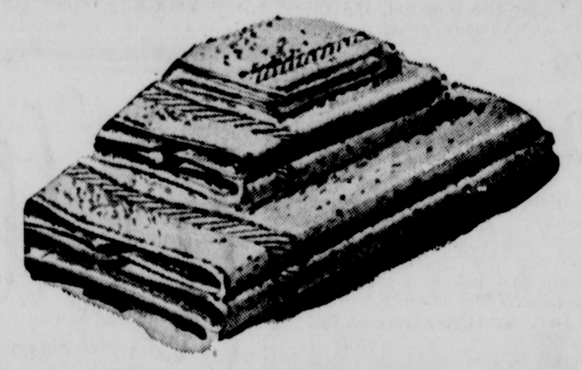

Four senators —three Democrats and one Republican — have said they will vote against confirming Carswell.

Rhinebeck Board Grants Time On Supervisor's Annual Report

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

Rhinebeck Town Board has felt it necessary to extend the time limit on the supervisor's annual report from 30 to 60 days, it was revealed at the board meeting Wednesday night.

Reasons given by newly elected Supervisor William Allen included the fact that the books were not set in order at the close of 1969 by departing Supervisor Rowland Sharpe.

It was brought out during the course of the meeting that no final meeting to close the books for 1969 had been held, and no detailed accounts by members of the board as to their financial statements had been given, as prescribed by town law.

The Town Board needed an extra 30 days to issue a supervisor's report because the final report for 1969 has still not been given to it by Sharpe. It was reported that Harold Traver was helping Sharpe prepare the report, and Traver had assured Allen that the books would be "okay," according to the supervisor.

When reminded by Paul Gmeiner that he could ask for a state audit within 60 days of taking office. Allen said that he didn't think this would be necessary, although he did say that the accounts ledger for 1969 was somewhat mixed up and would take some additions before the exact financial status of the town were known.

DeWitt Gurnell, town justice, commented that the board has been "concerned with the situation," and that there has been some laxity in getting the report to the board on time.

Allen also said that some changes would be nade in fiscal policy, with monthly financial reports being made during his administration. "This has not been done in the past," he said, "and I am sensitive to it."

James Hawco, town resident, said that he saw a dangerous policy for the past seven years of allowing the unexpended balance of the highway budget dwindle slowly from $22,000 to $3,000 this January.

In other town business, Allen read a letter from the State Conservation Department asking whether the town was still interested in developing the riverfront ferry property as a marina, as stated in a request dated October, 1968. Allen told The Freeman that there is still active consideration, but matching funds would have to be put up by the town, and they were not currently in the budget. The matter will be looked into.

Contracts with the Rhinecliff Fire District for $3,000 and the Village of Rhinebeck for $8,900 were approved, for 1970.

A matter was tabled concerning amount of bond to take out on the tax collector. The town had evidently been "getting a bargain" for years from the bonding company because of a misunderstanding on the size of the assessment role, according to Allen, but the matter had been straightened out.

Judge George Harrington asked for a full scale review of the town ordinances on the books, saying that the present situation was totally unorganized. He asked that the mobile home ordinance and the parking orinances especially be gone over by the town attorney to ascertain if they are legally binding.

The town is still conducting talks with employes on hourly pay scales for the new year, through the Employe Relations Committee.

Seniors, Dogs, Baseball Discussed in New Paltz

By SHANE CROSBY

During a brief meeting of New Paltz Town Board here Wednesday, Town Clerk Theodore Lasher announced that some 90 dogs are still without licenses, and according to state requirements owners now may be issued summonses.

Lasher, who faces the same problem faced by other townships since new and stiffer state mandates on enforcement of the New York dog licensing program, said persons are continuing to register their dogs, even after the deadline that officially went into effect Wednesday morning.

In other action, the board received a request for funds from the New Paltz Senior Citizens organization, recently formed in the area. The group claimed 128 members in its letter to the board, but the membership has since risen to about 181.

The seniors asked for $192 from the town, based on membership, and said they hope also to receive a like amount from the state in matching funds.

The board decided to set aside the requested money, pending an investigation that the new group meets all requirements for a fundable organization.

The second round of bidding on backstops for the town baseball park resulted in the presentation of one bid for two backstops at $990 each. In the first bidding held recently, one bid of about $1,500 was received, but a second bid was established due to a $500 overage of the bid from the allocated funds of the town.

A third bidding series is being considered by the town, due to the low response in the number of bidders.

Due to conflict in meetings that board members will be attending in March, the board voted to change the next regular meeting date to March 18.

A Possible Future Service... Conservation Advisory Council

RHINEBECK

A Conservation Advisory Council may be in the future for the Town of Rhinebeck, it was learned this week.

Peter Dykeman and Paul Gmeiner attended a meeting of the Conservation Advisory Council for town in Millbrook this week as emmissaries for the Town Board, and brought back particulars and information for consideration by board members.

Seven towns in Dutchess County already have this service, made legally possible by a section of town law which allows advisor committees for governing bodies.

The purpose of such an advisory council is to give valuable, and quite often professional, advise on controling the geographic, natural, and social ecology of the town.

This could be accomplished particularly by helping the town's Planning Board with population growth figures and concentrations, seeking the acquisition of land for specific uses, and preserving open spaces by the encouragement of cluster zoning and recreational parks.

Other uses could be management of soil use, flood control, collection and dissemination of pollution information through schools and other organizations such as scouts and 4-H, and conservation of wetlands for wildlife use.

It was pointed out that the Rhinebeck area is "ideally suited for an epidemic of encephalitis, if the mosquitoes were to get out of control," according to Dykeman. A reported 86 cases of infectious hepatitis were noted in Rhinebeck and Rhinecliff in 1956, which were linked to polluted waters.

A Conservation Advisory Committee would be composed of from five to nine members of "highly motivated and qualified" characteristics, who would serve two -year terms.

Members would be appointed by the Town Board, which is presently considering the idea.

The Lincoln We Remember

Perhaps the most tragic thing about Abraham Lincoln, the man of many tragedies, was that he was not permitted to live long enough to help "bind up the nation's wounds," as he urged his countrymen to do on his Second Inaugural Address, made a month before he was slain.

Ironically, Lincoln, the man of peace, was fated to to know nothing but war in the four years and one month of his presidency.

Ironically, Lincoln, the humanitarian and war-hater, was forced to direct the sacrificing of the flower of the nation's youth in a conflict whose dimensions still stagger the mind.

Yet—greatest irony of all—it is this Lincoln that we cherish not the Commander-in-Chief, not the strategist, not the preserver of the Union, though he was all of these.

It is the boy studying by light of hearth fire, the backwoods lawyer, the President who left his bed in the White House to sign a pardon for a soldier.

It is Lincoln the healer whose memory we honor, the gentle man, the eloquent peacemaker in the midst of battle.

Tested in the terrible crucible of war, blotted out by an assassin's bullet, his vision of a nation dedicated to justice for all men nevertheless endures and continues to inspire us.

Because of this, the tragedy of his death becomes a triumph and all the ironies dissolve away.

Steadfast, humble, merciful—this is the Lincoln we remember.

Pledge to the Flag

The High School Principals Association of New York City requested authority to discontinue the pledge of allegiance to the flag and was refused and rebuked by the State Education Department, which ordered the pledge continued.

In Baltimore, Michael Rose, a teacher, refused to lead his class in the pledge. His contract was not renewed. The Maryland House Judiciary Committee approved a bill compelling public school teachers to conduct a daily pledge of allegiance to the flag. It would allow a student to be excused from the ceremony only upon the writtten request of a parent. Teachers could not be excused for any reason. Maryland teachers who have any qualms about leading the pledge are being told to look for teaching jobs outside the state.

These are two evidences of a new anti-U.S. movement that has developed in the public schools. Obviously, it is the result of the drive to extend obstructionist tactics from the college campus to the high school. It must be nipped at the start before it renders patriotism a dirty word to hundreds of thousands of teenagers.

Unlike Maryland's action, the New York order does not have the force of law. It does not tell the students themselves that they may not refrain conspicuously from the pledge salute. It does not outline a penalty to teachers who refuse. Maryland has shown the way. Any other state with a similar problem can adopt the Maryland legislation.

Southern States Seek School Law Similar to New York's

WASHINGTON — All the states of the union are supposed to be equal. But somehow the people of the state of New York are today enjoying rights which the people of several states of the south apparently are being denied.

Many Congressmen are calling attention to a statute passed by an overwhelming vote of both Houses of the Legislature of the state of New York and signed by Governor Nelson Rockefeller, which became effective on Sept. 1, 1969. It provided that, except with the approval of a board of education the majority of whose members are elected:

"No student shall be assigned or compelled to attend any school on account of race, creed, color or national origin, or for the purpose of achieving equality in attendance or increased attendance or reduced attendance, at any school, of persons of one or more particular races, creeds, colors, or national origins; and no school district, school zone or attendance unit, by whatever name known, shall be established, reorganized or maintained for any such purpose, provided that nothing contained in this section shall prevent the assignment of a pupil in the manner requested or authorized by his parents or guardian."

This gives the parents of the children a chance to pick a school in their neighborhood and not be forced to send them elsewhere in order to fill racial quotas. A provision also was adopted making it clear that nothing in the law would impair the right of a religious or denominational educational institution to select its pupils exclusively or primarily from members of its own religion or denomination.

The effect of the legislation is to prevent appointed school boards and the state education commissioner from directing the assignment of pupils and altering school boundaries or attendance zones just to eliminate racial segregation. While the New York State Board of Regents called the new law "unsound," the legislature felt that it was reflecting the will of the people and that this was the desire of the electorate.

Congress now is being asked to pass a statute which will give the Southern states a similar privilege. This could be done by an amendment to the school-aid authorization bill at present before the Senate. Congress has the right under the Constitution to limit the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States. In the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Congress declared that the law does not "empower any official or court of the United States to issue any order seeking to achieve a racial balance in any school by requiring the transportation of pupils or students from one school to another or one school district to another in order to achieve such racial balance."

But some of the lower federal courts have ruled to the contrary, and there are cases pending which have not yet been passed upon by the Supreme Court. Many of the Southern Senators feel that Congress should reiterate its declaration concerning the limitation of the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court so as to exclude rulings on busing to attain "racial balance."

The issue is whether the people shall have "freedom of choice" — the right to determine to what schools their children may be sent.

There are lots of areas in the country where busing is not popular. Many members of Congress, particularly those who represent suburban areas, would not wish to see children from their districts sent into the cities to achieve racial quotas in city schools, or vice versa. The theory behind the New York State law is that the parents shall have the right to decide where their children shall go to school.

"Freedom of choice" is open, of course, to Negro parents as well as to white. If they wish to have their children bused to a school outside their neighborhood, they may do so. The problem really arises when parents are required, against their will, to send their children to faraway schools.

Within the next few weeks, Congress will have to come to some solution of the problem and apply it to all states of the union.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A sense of humor is as important to the complete man as a sense of responsibility. Humor, unto itself, is an elusive emotion. Like a lake on a cold day, some see it as water, others as ice, and still others as a low-lying mist. Although my ancestors are Irish, I have always been partial to the Jewish joke because it contains elements of philosophy.

It is ironic that the people who have wept the most, have also laughed the most. An old man was going bankrupt. He wnted to kill himself. His best friend said: "Be cheerful, Yankel. Matters could be worse." "Worse? How?" "You could be one of your own creditors."

In Jewish jokes, the leading part is universally played by "an old venerable gentleman." It is incredible that wit and wisdom cannot be attributed to a young person. An old man is sunning himself on the beach. Another one says politely: "May I join you?" The first one frowns. "What's the matter? I'm coming apart?"

Gerry Blumenfeld wrote the ultimate in such jokes. The book is called "Some of My Best Jokes Are Jewish" (Kranrom). Like Hebrew, it reads from back to front, and from right to left. The best jokes are arguments in semantics. A wife nudges her husband in bed. "Please get up and close the window. It's so cold outside." "Nu," the husband mumbles, "if I close the window it will get warm outside?"

Two businessmen meet. One says "so how is business?" The other one claps a hand to his head and grunts "Ehhh!" The first one says: "For this time of year that's not bad." An old man is dying and the rabbi asks him to make his peace with God. The dying man lifts himself off the pillow: "I didn't know we quarrelled."

Then there are the sillies: An El Al airliner leaves Kennedy airport for Tel Aviv. Five minutes later the pilot asks for emergency clearance to come back. "Why?" the tower asks. "What's the emergency?" "We forgot the pickles." Or: Two old buddies on a park bench and one says: "You know, Moishe, life is like a bowl of cherries." His friend says: "Why?" The first one thumps his chest. "Why, he's asking me. What am I, a philosopher?"

A man weeps loudly at the funeral of a rich man. Someone consoles him and says: "You must be a relative." "I'm not," the sobber says "Then why are you crying?" "That's why." I grew up in an Irish, Jewish, Italian neighborhood and I noticed early that Jewish humor is based on illogical logic.

A woman is buying a mink. "What if I get caught in the rain?" she asks the salesman. "Listen, lady," the clerk says, "did you ever see a mink carrying an umbrella?" Two men having lunch. One says, "My wife dreams every night she's married to a millionaire." The other one shrugs over his kreplach. "That's nothing. My wife dreams that in the daytime."

Ruthie comes home from college: "Daddy, I'm pregnant." The father shrieks about the sacrifices he and his wife made to give the kid an education. "So who's the father?" he demanded. The girl shrugged. "I don't really know." The father turned to his wife. "With all the education we gave her she couldn't say: 'You'll be so kindly, but with whom am I having the pleasure?'"

The illogical logic is best exemplified in a story about a member of the the men's club who got blind drunk at every meeting. The officers decided to scare him and carried him out in a Jewish cemetery and laid him among the tombstones. In the morning, the soak awakened, looked around, and murmured: "If I'm alive, what am I doing among these tombstones? If I'm dead, how come I have to go to the bathroom?"

Members of the Knesset meeting in Jerusalem decided to declare war on the U.S. "Why?" a member asks in shocked tones. "Because," he is told, "America beats its enemies flat, then builds roads, dams, hydro-electric plants, airports — all the things Israel needs." The doubtful member shook his head. "It sounds great," he said, "but with our lousy luck, we're liable to win."

A Catholic kid and a Jewish kid are playing marbles. The Catholic kid says: "My priest knows more than your rabbi." "Why not," the Jewish boy says, "you tell him everything."

In Jewish jokes, all females become "little old ladies." They are never big or young. One walked into a kosher shop and picked up a chicken. She felt every part of it, neck, breast, legs, skin and the butcher became irritated. "Mazel tov," he said, "I'd like to see you pass such an inspection...

Jack Anderson Says
Herrera Uses Bank Position To Get Confidential Information

WASHINGTON — Startling new facts have come to light concerning the strange dealings of Felipe Herrera, the cherubic Chilean who heads the Inter-American Development Bank.

In an earlier column, we disclosed that Herrera had used the bank's money to mortgage his fashionable home, publish his speeches and crisscross the globe. He devoted his energies to polishing his personal image while tolerating slipshod lending practices at the bank.

It can now be reported that Herrera used his position as the bank's president to obtain confidential financial information about a Chilean citizen for a friend.

Herrera sought the inside information on a Chilean mining executive at the request of Henry Simon Bloch, a director of E.M. Warburg & Co., a large international banking firm.

'I would appreciate it if the information could be obtained very confidentially and that the name of my firm or myself does not appear on the request," banker Bloch wrote Herrera in a letter marked "confidential" in bold capital letters.

Within weeks, the Inter-American Development Bank's office in Santiago, Chile, obtained the information. Herrera then slipped it to Bloch in a letter which made it plain that he always stood ready to assist his wealthy friend in a similar manner.

Herrera has sought to pursue his position to help other friends. In one case, both Herrera and the bank's vice president, an American named Graydon Upton, found themselves playing both borrower and lender.

This occurred when the Pan American Development Foundation, a small organization which makes minor development loans in Latin America, tried to get an unsecured loan of $2 million from the Inter-American Bank.

Although both Herrera and Upton are on the board of directors of the little foundation, they did not let this stop them from lobbying vigorously to get the loan approved. This was done in spite of rigid bank rules which forbid unsecured loans. Indeed, the bank's staff had recommended that the loan request be denied.

Directors Hold Firm

When the U.S. representative on the bank's board balked at approving the loan, Upton and Herrera tried to persuade friendly Congressmen and influential New York businessmen to put pressure on the director.

Fortunately for the U.S. taxpayers, who are the source of most of the bank's money, the director refused to budge. Yet Upton is said to be still trying to ram the loan through.

Herrera is a notorious status-seeker who sometimes goes to extra-ordinary lengths to reward those who give him the opportunity to hobnob with the famous.

In the summer of 1968, Constantine Doxiadis, the famous city planner, took Herrera on a cruise aboard his yacht in the Aegean Sea. The guest list included such notables as anthropologist Margaret Mead and historian Arnold Toynbee.

Significantly the bank has awarded a contract to Doxiadis to study the possibility of developing the vast River Plate Basin in lower South America, a subject remote from Doxiadis's speciality. Brazilian and Argentine officials were furious, but Herrera was undeterred. He rules the bank with such an iron grip that not even a large member nation such as Brazil can afford to challenge him for fear that its development loans will suddenly dry up.

On the same junket which took Herrera to the Aegean, he also attended a conference in Hungary. It focused, among other things, on the possibility of increased communist participation in Latin American development.

By itself, this would have been of interest to U.S. officials, who regard the bank as a means of holding down communist influence in this hemisphere.

But Herrera went still further. He engaged in a chummy exchange of correspondence with an official of communist East Germany, exploring the possibility of another visit by Herrera behind the iron curtain.

Despite these and other bizarre activities by Herrera, the Nixon administration has asked Congress to cough up an extra $206 million to add to the roughly $400 million which the U.S. annually contributes to the bank.

Battered Baggage

Senate staff lawyer Dorothy Goodwin's new suitcase recently flew the American Way to Boston and got so banged up she had to bind it with twine to keep her clothes from falling out.

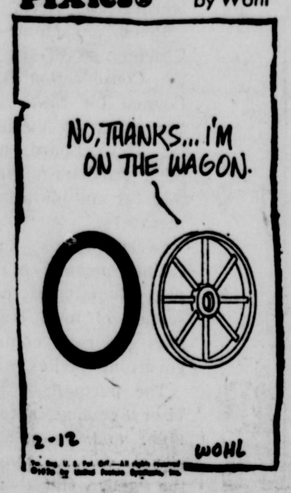

She complained to American Airlines representatives in Boston who said Washington, where she bought the ticket, had to make good on it. So the chic Mrs. Goodwin, like a refugee from the dust bowl, toted her twine-wrapped suitcase for the rest of the trip.

Back in Washington, instead of those smiling stewardesses you see on television, American Airlines officials told her she would have to bring her battered baggage down to their office for verification.

But the red-haired attorney, a staffer on the Senate Antitrust Committee, has tangled with companies tougher than American Airlines. She firmly invited the airline to come get the suitcase and exchange it for a new one.

The airline complied, and the new suitcase arrived. But land travel proved as disastrous to baggage as air travel. The new one, too, was split and useless. Once more, Mrs. Goodwin is waiting, the American Way, for a new suitcase.

Fairy Tales About Laos Air War by Nixon Critics

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some strangely imprecise things are being said by the President's critics in support of their view that U.S. air combat over Laos has been sharply "escalated."

I have been told by knowledgeable sources here that the Ho Chi Minh trail, whose Laotian segment runs nearly 300 miles, has indeed been more heavily assaulted by U.S. aircraft in the last year or so than ever before.

It is also true that similar attacks have been more numerous since last summer against Communist forces contesting the Laotian government armies in northern Laos.

Some critics, however, are trumpeting published accounts which use exact figures or other specific gauges on "sorties flown" or on the pounding administered by us in Laos. Upon close scrutiny, these turn out to be quite inexact.

The most commonly heard figure is 400 U.S. sorties flown per day, or 12,000 a month. Sometimes this is applied just to assaults on Hanoi's infiltrating tream of men and material on the Ho trail, but other times it includes attacks in all of Laos.

One analyst writes that our jets have given Laos a pounding equal to that "taken by North Vietnam prior to the bombing halt in 1968."

Now, first off, the "400 sorties per day" assertion is not being compared with any prior figure at all, so it is really useless as a measure of "escalation." What was the earlier rate?

Secondly, though the critics offer no yearly estimate, they know that in the absence of qualifying statements the reader or listener is being left free to multiply 12,000 sorties a month and come up with an annual figure upwards of 144,000 sorties by our fighter-bombers.

But such a calculation is hardly reasonable. Flying weather is bad for six months over Laos because of clouds, rain and fog, and another two months (March and April) because of the haze which results from the "slash and burn" rice-growing habits of the hill tribes. They cut down trees and burn off grasses before planting on hill slopes.

Furthermore, the critics are reckless in not constantly distinguishing between attacks on the Ho Chi Minh trail, which are in fact a part of the war in Vietnam, and assaults in northern Laos.

The bombing of the supply trail is an old and widely known story — not a "secret war." As I indicated, a step-up is acknowledged. But it hardly is a surprise, since the 1968 bombing halts of North Vietnam freed many U.S. planes for other action and they are still in Southeast Asia.

Today they hammer extra-hard at such spots as the Mu Gia Pass, where the trail enters Laos from North Vietnam. They seem never to hit Tchepone in Laos, a major trail base further south, for Russian aircraft deliver supplies to the North Vietnamese at that point.

No critic and no U.S. government source here or in Laos is saying exactly how many sorties are flown by us against the 50,000 North Vietnamese regulars and the pathetic Pathet Lao in northern Laos.

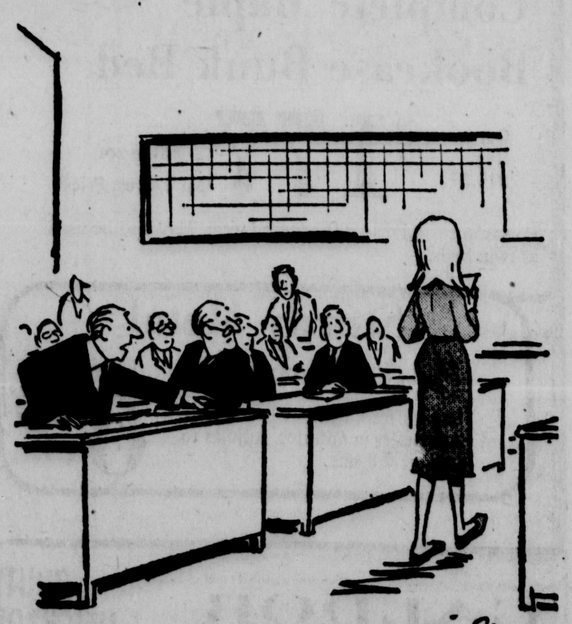

Surely no high, sustained pace of attack is possible. The long monsoon rain season hobbles flying, and severely limits ground fighting. Tactical air assault, of course, is in close ratio to fighting levels and inevitably falls off when combat diminishes.

It must be presumed that much U.S. air assault in northern Laos is in fact tactical, for the half or more of that country held by Lao Viet forces is ruggedly mountainous with just a few scattered valleys and plateaus and no sizable centers to serve as strategic targets. You can walk for days in that territory and never see more than a village or two—or even only a tiny cluster of huts.

Laos has no rail line, a mere 1,800 miles of all-weather roads, just two of which warrant being called highways. The North Vietnamese regulars, backbone of the Red fighting force, have no single, well-defined system of supply trails like the Ho Chi Minh route to Vietnam.

"Big bombing" in northern Laos can only be a fairy tale.

New Emphasis: Cure At-Home Ills

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) On analysis, President Nixon's 1971 budget turns out to be a very radical document indeed.

It will, by what it forecasts several years down the pike, result in a radical reorientation of how the government approaches crime, welfare, race, education and rehabilitation of the unfortunate.

Take Nixon's new hard attack on crime.

It would be easy to focus on the new emphasis on wire-tapping and on refusing bail to some men awaiting trial, or on the development of new police weapons or the sought-for-and-granted right for police in some cases to enter without knocking or to emphasize that in two short years Nixon is doubling the federal law and order budget to $1.2 billion.

In actuality, more than half the (two-year) $600 million budget increase will go for an all-out attack on organized crime, for job training and other rehabilitation projects for men and women sent to prison, for educating and training police officers, improving courts, research, for new approaches on crime prevention and juvenile delinquency and on studies on why people become aggressive, violent and destructive.

The over-all law-and-order emphasis in this budget actually shifts a notch from the individual criminal to organized crime, from the minor criminal to the boss criminal, from punishment to rehabilitation and from catching criminals to preventing crime. The implication in this budget is that these shifts will grow larger in the future.

The 1971 budget sets the stage for major changes in education, job training and welfare.

It calls for sharply expanded research programs on why such a high percentage of job trainees don't get jobs, why Head Start preschoolers (from impoverished homes) so frequently slip back in their studies when they graduate from the program, why federally financed dropout programs don't keep a higher percentage of students in school. It emphasizes an array of experimental schools to develop, test and demonstrate new approaches.

The significance here is that, up to now, a pittance of our national education and training spending has gone into research. If our experience in space, medical and industrial laboratories has any parallel, these studies will lead in this decade to radical new techniques.

The proposed Family Assistance Program would commit $4.4 billion in its first full year of operation for what amounts to a guaranteed minimum income for poor families with children.

The point to note is that FAP is one of a handful of programs being readied that would provide the needy with funds rather than aid-in-kind on the theory that the government is very inefficient in distributing services and more efficient in distributing funds. If the system works, it could mean eventually the elimination of much of the bureaucratic overhead that today soaks up such a high proportion of our welfare money.

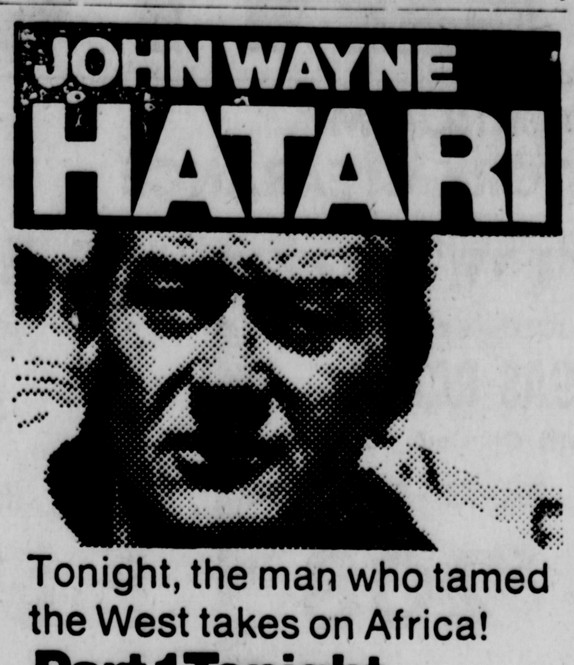

It also tests the much-debated thesis that those on welfare can be trusted with money (without detailed supervision) and that they will work if given the chance when there is an incentive.

The budget increases from $16 million in 1968 to $92 million in 1971 the money spent on "family planning" (birth control) services to the poor, with the promise that within the next five years this service will be doubled again to serve 5 million poor women.

With some authorities estimating that 25 to 30 per cent of all babies born are neither planned nor wanted, and with most unplanned-unwanted births presumably occurring among the poor, this dramatic expansion of birth control aid could result in major population changes in this country in the years ahead.

Listed above are a few samplings, picked at random, from Nixon's 1971 budget proposals. But they give the flavor. As these programs grow (and they have built-in growth factors) they will greatly change the government's approach to the major domestic problems of our time.

The Gallup Report

Nixon's Approval Rating Is Now at 66 Per Cent

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 11—President Richard Nixon has registered steady popularity gains in successive measurements since mid-December, with 66 per cent of all persons interviewed in the latest Gallup survey saying they approve of the way he is discharging his duties.

The President's gains since mid-December have been greater in the East than in the other major regions of the nation.

The mid-December survey showed President Nixon with a 54 per cent approval rating in the East, a lower score than registered in the Midwest, South or Far West. Today his score in the East, 64 per cent approval, matches his support in the other three major regions of the country.

Interviewing for the latest survey was carried out Jan. 30-Feb. 2 in more than 300 selected localities of the nation. Personal interviews were obtained with 1481 adults, representing the correct proportions of persons in each of the four major regions.

The survey was conducted following the President's January 26 veto of the $19.7 billion appropriations bill for health, education and antipoverty programs—a bill the President described as inflationary.

Following is the question asked in the survey:

Do you approve or disapprove of the way Nixon is handling his job as President?

Here are the latest results with the trend since mid-November, when the President registered his highest approval rating to date. This followed the President's Nov. 3 speech on Vietnam.

Nixon Trend Line

	Approve	Disapprove	No Opin.
LATEST	66	23	11
Jan. 16-19	63	23	14
Jan. 2-4	61	22	17
Dec. 12-15	59	23	18
Nov. 14-17	68	19	13

The President's latest approval rating (66 per cent) is slightly above his 13-month average of 62 per cent. His low point was 56 per cent, recorded last October prior to his Vietnam speech and during a period of marked discouragement over the war.

President Nixon's popularity rating is virtually the same in all four major regions of the nation. By contrast, President Johnson after a comparable period in office fared less well in the South than in the other three regions. However, President Johnson's approval rating nationally at that time stood at 71 per cent, 5 points higher than Nixon's today.

Following are the regional results:

	Approve	Disapprove	No Opin.
EAST	64	24	12
MIDWEST	63	23	14
SOUTH	65	22	13
FAR WEST	64	24	12

The above percentages are based on the last two surveys combined in order to increase the size of the sample base for each region. These percentages, therefore, do not average exactly to the national figure.

Factors Behind Nixon's Gains

Moves by the Administration to scale down the war and to withdraw troops are popular with large segments of the public and are likely to create a particularly favorable response in the East, consistently the most dovish region of the nation.

Similarly, efforts by the Administration to grapple with the problem of inflation, now the top domestic worry of Americans, would perhaps be most eagerly received by Easterners, who recent Gallup surveys show have been among the hardest hit by high prices.

The new focus of the Nixon Administration on domestic problems, including urban ills and pollution, could be expected to create a favorable response nationally and particularly among persons living in the East, the most densely populated and urbanized region of the nation.

The Vietnam war has subsided somewhat as a top worry of the American people. A third of adults interviewed nationally in a recent Gallup survey say the nation's number one problem is the Vietnam war, the lowest portion recorded in five and a half years, and half the proportion who named the war as the top problem at the end of 1966.

Saugerties Homicide — Extends to Rome, Italy

TOWN OF SAUGERTIES

Investigation of the murder of an unidentified man found in a ravine off Plattecove Mountain Road in the Town of Saugerties, has extended to Rome, Italy, through Canada, it has been learned.

A State Police official said that a BCI investigator from the Malone station, has been working with Royal Canadian Mounted police inspectors trying to track down clues that might establish identity of the victim and a motive for the slaying.

Area investigators have a liaison with Rome authorities and the police in Canada, it was noted.

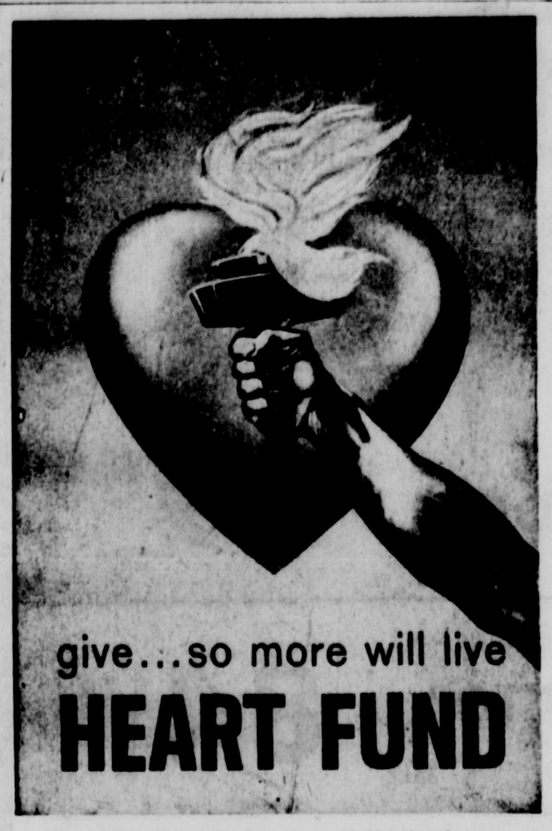

Investigation of possibilities in West Virginia and New York City is continuing.

Meanwhile, Senior BCI Investigator Edward Shannon emphasized that the body of the victim, discovered frozen at the foot of a steep embankment in the west end of the Town of Saugerties, is "still unidentified."

The body was found Feb. 1.

Four bullet wounds found in the head of the man indicated he was the victim of a gang slaying, but authorities as yet have not tied loose ends together to the point of identification of a motive.

Timber Cutting Bill Gets Nixon Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has stamped its "complete approval" on a controversial timber cutting bill that ran into a cross-fire between conservationists and the lumber industry.

The administration's decision to throw its support behind the measure Wednesday delighted House supporters, who had quickly withdrawn it from floor consideration last week in the face of heavy absenteeism, opposition from conservationists, and reports of troubles ahead.

Despite the administration boost, however, a sharp fight is expected when the measure is rescheduled by the House leadership, a step that is not expected at least until late this month.

Although the bill provides for replanting and selected thinning programs, conservationists feel it puts too much emphasis on timber cutting at the expense of protection for watersheds, fish and wildlife, grazing and recreation.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin said the administration feels the legislation "will greatly promote improved forest management practices and is essential to improving the timber producing capacity of the national forests within use and sustained yield principles."

George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, also issued a statement endorsing the bill.

"In the next five years, domestic timber requirements for use in residential construction alone will almost double," Romney said. "Without the substantial increase in timber production which the enactment of this legislation will encourage, it will be difficult, if not impossible to build the homes America needs."

Hardin said the bill has his department's complete approval and added the Bureau of the Budget—which last August suggested a delay on the legislation—has "no objection to the presentation of this report from the standpoint of the administration's program."

The secretary said some changes suggested by his department have been made in the original draft to meet objections by conservationists.

Hearing Friday For City Man On Downspouts

KINGSTON — Albert Lewis, 44, of 131 O'Neil Street, pleaded innocent before City Judge Hubert A. Richter Wednesday to charges of possessing burglary tools and criminal tresspass third degree, and hearing was adjourned until Friday.

A charge of grand larceny lodged against Lewis accusing him of allegedly stealing 180 feet of copper downspout from St. Mary's Church on Broadway, was referred to the grand jury, police said.

In other court cases before Judge Richter, James Evans Armstrong, 18, of Hasbrouck Avenue, and James Floyd Duff, 25, of Hickorybush Road, Whiteport, appeared on charges of third degree grand larceny. Their case was deferred until Feb. 18.

The two men are accused of taking a car belonging to Peter Holmes of Cedar Street, a city fireman. The alleged theft took place in front of Central Fire Station, where Holmes was on duty. The vehicle was later involved in an accident on Mountain Road near Edyville. Armstrong and Duff were both injured.

Ostmark Goes To Ellenville, BCI Division

ELLENVILLE — Trooper Jack R. Ostmark, who has been stationed at the Highland substation of the State Police, has been assigned to the BCI division and is working out of the barracks in this area.

Ostmark will complete eight years of service with the state police in September. He had been in Highland since August, 1963, and during this time has been stationed in Batavia, Bergin, Oneonta and Kingston stations.

DiBona's Name Is Withdrawn As SS Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On Jan. 8 the White House confirmed Charles J. DiBona was the leading contender to replace Gen. Lewis B. Hershey as director of the Selective Service. Wednesday the White House said DiBona's name had been withdrawn.

Officially, the word was that members of the Senate Armed Services Committee objected to DiBona's support of an all-volunteer Army. But there also were reports DiBona, 37, a former Rhodes scholar, rubbed some of the senators the wrong way and they thought him abrasive and immature.

Apparently both the committee's chairman, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., and, especially, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, its ranking Republican, opposed DiBona.

President Nixon now must find someone else to succeed Hershey, who steps down as director Monday to become a special consultant to the President on military manpower.

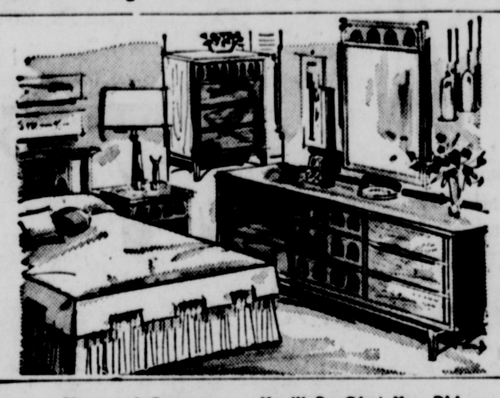

Accountants to Meet

The National Association of Accountants, Mid-Hudson Chapter, will conduct a joint meeting with the Mid-Hudson Valley Chapter of the American Production and Inventory Control Society Monday, Feb. 16.

The revised schedule includes a social hour starting at 5:30 p.m. at the Red Bull Motor Inn, South Road, Poughkeepsie. Following dinner, two seminar discussion groups will convene to discuss Inventory Control and Tax Planning.

Black Africa Problems On Agenda of Rogers

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers turned his attention today to the problems of black Africa after outlining the Nixon administration's policy on the Middle East for eventual relay to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Rogers met for an hour and 15 minutes Wednesday night with Yugoslavia's President Tito, who by coincidence also was visiting the Ethiopian capital. Tito flew to Kenya today and next weekend goes on to the Sudan, Egypt and Libya.

American officials reported Rogers and Tito agreed an effort should be made to secure an embargo on arms deliveries to both Israel and the Arab states. But a far more meaningful result of the meeting was the clear picture of the American position which Tito can now present to Nasser.

U.S. officials pointed out before the meeting that Tito's relations with the revolutionary Arab leaders—and with Nasser in particular—are much closer than those of the United States and that the Yugoslav leader could play a constructive role in efforts to find a negotiated settlement. The United States has no diplomatic relations with Egypt or the Sudan.

The U.S. officials declined to say whether Rogers asked Tito to convey any American proposals to the Arab leaders. But Rogers undoubtedly sought to enlist Tito's help in American peace efforts.

Both American and Yugoslav officials said the discussion brought the two countries closer together on the Middle East and other international problems.

Rogers met for an hour today with Emperor Haile Selassie, then was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the emperor. The American secretary also met Diallo Telli, the Guinean diplomat who is secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity, which has its headquarters in Addis Ababa.

Both Haile Selassie and Telli are concerned over the white-supremacy regimes in southern Africa. Rogers undoubtedly pleased them when he declared on his arrival from Tunis Wednesday that these regimes "are contrary to the dignity of man" and an obstacle to progress and stability in Africa.

Rogers continues his 10-nation African tour Friday, following Tito to Nairobi for a meeting with Kenya's President Jomo Kenyatta.

Rhinebeck Barn Fire Checked

RHINEBECK

Fire broke out this morning in a Rhinebeck barn on South Lands Farm on Route 9.

Chief John McGuire Jr. of the Hillside Fire Co. said that upon their arrival flames were shooting up through the roof. The barn was not completely destroyed, he said. The barn was of an open type and there were no animals in the stable at the time of the fire, authorities reported.

The Hillside Fire Co. responded from a call by state troopers who were making a routine check of the area. The call was made at 3:58 a.m. and was assisted by Rhinebeck Engine under mutual aid at 4:08 a.m.

According to Chief McGuire, there were several buildings located near the barn but the fire did not spread to any of these buildings.

Getting Younger

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The median age in the United States is 27.7 years, according to the census bureau. This means there are as many people above that age as there are below it.

In the 1960, census, the bureau said, the median age was 29.5 years. During the past decade, the agency said, the number of people between the ages of 14 and 24 increased by 44 per cent —from 27.2 million in 1960 to 39.1 million last year.

Successful Investing....

By ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst

Q—When a person's associates are not part of the financial community and his portfolio justifies professional management, how does he go about finding and judging a successful company? —R. B.

A—Investment counseling as a profession has come of age but many firms handle only institutional or very large private accounts. Brokerage houses give out an ever-increasing volume of advice to their clients and many—for a fee—supervise the portfolios of individual customers. Although your question seems to imply that your brokerage firm does not offer this service, it probably handles transactions for professionally managed accounts and from this experience could perhaps offer some suggestions.

Since confidence and integrity are involved when money is at stake, you might list the people you know whose judgment you would trust and whose integrity you would never doubt. What about your lawyer, doctor or dentist? As a group, professional men are so busy with their own work that they frequently put their investments into the hands of trained counselors. The finance officer in a local business firm might know where to direct you.

You could also follow the advertising in the financial press for possible leads. I think a firm close enough to afford the opportunity for personal conference is desirable. You should look for a company established long enough to have had experience in sustained bear markets as well as bull markets. A review of their results should prove helpful in forming your opinion.

Q—Outboard Marine shares keep dropping. Should I sell? —S. S.

A—Yes. Near-term prospects for OM shares are not enhanced by the proposed creation of a preferred issue. Nor will the March termination of boat manufacturing improve the company's intermediate outlook. Longer-term, Outboard should not only benefit from this termination but also from increased demand for leisure-time products. However, with tight money conditions extending for several months, this latter area will probably be the recipient of a declining share of consumer dollars.

40 at Hearing Of Kerhonkson Water District

KERHONKSON

More than 40 attended a public hearing on a revision of the ordinance regulating the operation of Kerhonkson Water District before Wawarsing Town Board Wednesday night at Kerhonkson Fire Hall.

Town Councilman Frank Greco said only minor changes were suggested at the hearing and these will be considered at a special meeting of the Town Board with Kerhonkson Water Advisory Commission. The Water Commission consists of Kerhonkson fire commissioners.

Councilman Greco said that no further hearings will be necessary due to the minor changes under consideration and as soon as the final draft is completed the Town Board will act on adoption.

The proposed new ordinance will update the ordinance in effect for the past 10 years.

The ordinance includes service connection specifications, seasonal occupancies, regulations for hookup by trailers and mobile homes and temporary installations.

Market Gains 10 On Rumor of Cut In Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Rumors that a major bank might cut its prime lending rate helped push the stock market to a 10-point gain in the final hour of trading Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, drifting downward for much of the session, closed at 757.33, up 10.70.

Analysts said the rally also was fueled by rumors that the Federal Reserve Board might ease credit restrictions today. Tight credit, as reflected in the current monetary restrictions, has been a major market depressant for the last year.

Chase Manhattan Bank, First National City, and Morgan Guaranty, however, said they had no plans of cutting their record 8½ per cent prime interest rate — the fee banks charge their best credit customers for loans.

Dry Powder

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI)—A manufacturer of small arms ammunition here has come up with a .22 caliber ammunition plastic package that keeps the ammunition dry in the wettest weather. The Omark-CCI plastic dispenser holds 100 cartridges instead of the usual 50, and is the first change in .22 ammunition packaging in more than 50 years.

15-Year County Growth Greatest in History

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
KINGSTON

Ulster County, one of the 10 original counties of the state, has in the past 15 years recorded its greatest period of sustained rapid growth in its 286-year history.

County tax tables for the past 15 years indicate that the real and franchise property value of the county has increased slightly more than 80 per cent from $432 million in 1955 to $763 million at the start of 1970. Franchise properties include rail and utility lines.

In this same period the assessed value of all real and franchise property in the county has increased nearly 50 per cent from $104 million to $157 million this year.

Most prominent in this sustained growth are six towns and the City of Kingston which have recorded the greatest percentages of growth.

Ulster Shows the Way

The Town of Ulster, one of the most rapidly growing townships in the state, has more than a 290 per cent increase in full value of real and franchise properties in putting it at the top. At the same time assessed values have increased nearly 100 per cent.

The full value for the 1970 tax period is listed at $72 million as compared with a full value of $24.6 million for 1955. The assessed value was listed at $5.2 million in 1955 as compared with $10 million for this year.

The trend during the years has been toward the rapid decline of agricultural activity and the bourgeoning of industrial and commercial developent. Rail, water and highway transportation also show tremendous increases with the increased movement of bulk cargoes of cement and lightweight aggregate and electronic equipment.

The State Thruway in full operation for most of this period helped in no small way to open the channels of transportation to nurture this rapid growth.

The rapid growth in the Town of Ulster generated the need for additional services and the subsequent increase in the town tax rate which this year shows a hike of a little better than 80 per cent. Inflation covering increased costs of labor and materials is a great factor in the tax rate increase.

Special

The establishment of International Business Machines Corp., in the township with its huge, ever-growing complex signaled the start of rapid growth. This created the need for shopping centers and mushrooming housing developments in all directions. The adjacent towns of Woodstock, Saugerties, Hurley, Marlbetown, Esopus, New Paltz and the City of Kingston felt the impact of this large labor force.

Woodstock Next

Next to the Town of Ulster, Woodstock showed the greatest percentage of increase, better than 100 per cent of full value of real and franchise properties and more than an 85 per cent increase in the assessed valuation. The tax rate in these 15 years increased from $64.46 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to $112.07 for this year.

The assessed valuation in 1955 totaled $2,756,461 and full value $18,376,407 compared with this year's figures of $5,119,695 and $39,382,269.

The Town of Saugerties did nearly as well with a 50 per cent increase in assessed valuation now totaling $10 million and full value of $71.6 million. Full value increased more than 100 per cent. Assessed value totaled $6 million in 1955 and full value $31.9 million.

Tax Rate Nearly Doubled

The town tax rate nearly doubled in these years. In 1955 the rate was $45 and this year pushed to $88.65 per $1,000.

Both Woodstock and Saugerties felt the impact of IBM with a tremendous growth in housing. Each experienced industrial growth with Rotron Manufacturing Co., in Woodstock and Ferroxcube Corp., in Saugerties.

The Town of Hurley shows a 300 per cent increase in its full value but less than 50 per cent in its assessed value. However, the equalization rate in 1955 was 42 as compared with the current rate of 21.

The expansion of the State University College and some commercial development in the Town of New Paltz increased its assessed valuation by better than 50 per cent. However, the full value now listed at $38.9 million shows an increase of less than 30 per cent.

The Town of Marbletown by comparison, even though closer to the IBM complex shows an increase in assessed valuation of about 25 per cent and full value of better than 50 per cent. This despite increased housing and the establishment of Ulster County Community College.

Kingston Holds Its Own

The City of Kingston despite losses through the urban renewal program and firms moving out of Kingston to neighboring townships still shows better than 25 per cent increase in assessed valuation and better than 30 per cent in full value. For evaluation purposes it should be noted that reassessment of all properties in the city was accomplished during the administration of Mayor Frederick H. Stang during the 1956-57 period.

The Town of Wawarsing, far to the south and west of IBM had its own industrial development and increased resort business. Wawarsing has a tremendous full valuation of $99.6 million as compared with $65.4 million in 1955. By comparison Wawarsing's assessed valuation in 1955 was $13 million against $15.9 million this year, an increase of more than 20 per cent.

Attendant with this growth are many problems creating need for planning and zoning, disposal of solid wastes and refuse, expansion of educational facilities and the overbearing school tax rates. Studies have been started in all of these directions and only time will bring satisfactory solutions.

FOCAL POINT OF ULSTER COUNTY DEVELOPMENT

Blacks Form, 'School Board' In Newburgh

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Frustrated by what they call a series of setbacks by the white-dominated board of education, blacks have formed their own "board of education."

Donald Lee, state President of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Wednesday that the new group would seek recognition from the state and federal governments as the official board of educatioln in Newburgh.

Negroes have been unhappy with the board over failure to provide bus transportation for all high school students and its reversal of a previous board's decision to bus children to improve racial balance.

One elementary school is about 99 per cent Negro, although Newburgh has only 2,000 black students in its total school population of about 13,000.

The final straw, black spokesmen said, was the firing of George Butler, administrative aide of the city Human Relations Commission following a school protest at which Butler was present.

Chest Dinner Set Feb. 21

KINGSTON

Wilbur R. Peters, president of the Ulster County Community Chest announced today that the annual dinner-dance of the Chest will be held on Saturday, Feb. 21 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The buffet dinner will commence at 7 p.m. followed by a brief program and dancing. A Dutch treat social hour will start at 6:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the Community Chest office, in the Governor Clinton Hotel. The reservation deadline is Monday, Feb. 16.

Peters said that the program will consist of special reports by the president, campaign chairman and chairman of the nominating committee. Although the Community Chest fell short of its $411,000 goal, over $350,000 was raised to meet the basic needs of its 15 member agencies.

Marie Maines Weds Richard C. Fox at St. Peter's

MRS. RICHARD C. FOX
(Lakeside Studio)

Miss Marie Dorothy Maines, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Maines of 16 Reynolds Street, Kingston, became the bride of Richard Chester Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester D. Fox of 589 Albany Avenue Extension, Kingston, on Sunday, Feb. 8 at St. Peter's Church, Kingston.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis P. Brennan officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Ann Goldrick, organist, accompanied Miss Rita L. Horvers who sang traditional wedding selections. The church altar was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of peau. Pearled and sequined scalloped Chantilace formed a Sabrina neckline. Lace encircled the lower part of the A-Line skirt, and the circular train, edged in lace, formed a redingote effect. A Dior bow of peau held her French illusion veil and she carried a stylized cascade of white bridal roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Lucille Terpening of Broadway, Port Ewen, was matron of honor for her sister in a sheath, empire gown of pink serrano with cameo pink velvet forming the bodice and long sleeves. Pink Venise lace circled the high waistline and trimmed the watteau train. She wore a pink serrano bow and carried a heart shaped bouquet of red carnations and pink roses, edged with lace.

Attandants were Mrs. Linda Lane, Sawkill; Miss Michelle Weider, Delaware Avenue, Kingston; and Mrs. Jane Pendell of Troy. Their gowns were fashioned identically to that of the matron of honor's except for Tyrol red velvet bodices and sleeves and they carried heart-shaped bouquets of red carnations edged with lace.

Miss Regina L. Fox, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl in a gown styled identically to the honor attendant's. She carried a small fireside basket with red carnations and pink roses.

Booth R. Pendell of Troy was best man. Ushers were Thomas Bahorik, Elmendorf Street; Ronald Eckert, Arlington Place; Robert H. Maines, brother of the bride, Florence Street, all of Kingston Jeffrey L. Maines, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception for 100 guests was held at Capri '400' Restaurant, Port Ewen.

For her wedding trip to Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the bride selected a white plaid dress and coat ensemble with black accessories and a white rose corsage.

The bride, a graduate of John A. Coleman High School, is employed at New York Telephone Company, Kingston. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is employed at Fox Automotive Supply, this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox will reside at Kingston.

Mrs. Atwater Elected to Board For Community Concert Group

The Community Concert Association of Kingston has announced the election of Mrs. LeRoy Atwater of Tannersville to its Board of Directors. John A. McCullough, president of Kingston Community Concerts, says, "we are indeed fortunate in the selection and acceptance of Mrs. Atwater because she is an exceptionally vital and gifted lady whose presence on the Board will be most welcome."

Mrs. Atwater retired in June from the Hunter-Tannersville Central School after 37 years of continuous teaching service. She is a trustee and treasurer of the Mid-Hudson Library System, the Hunter Public Library, the Haines Falls Free Library, and Vedder Memorial Library in Coxsackie. Mrs. Atwater is a board member of the Greene County Mental Health Association, the Greene County Council of Churches, and is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, International Honor Society for Women Educators. She has traveled extensively throughout America, Europe, Asia, and North Africa, and recently returned from a month's tour of the major Hawaiian Islands.

Mrs. Atwater considers her election "a distinct compliment" and adds, "praise is high in this area for the fine programs presented by Community Concerts including, and especially, the most recent one by the Whit-Lo Singers."

Elected to the Hononary Board of Community Concerts was Mrs. Louis Kegler who, for many years, was membership secretary of the organization. Mrs. Kegler now lives in Lee, Mass., but, Mr. McCullough points out, "Her help and guidance and loyalty sustained us for a long period to tome and she will never be forgotten by those of us who worked with her."

Named to Dean's List

Area school winners in the 1970 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow have been announced to The Daily Freeman. They are Helen C. Prince, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll T. Prince Jr. of Hillside Drive, Elmendorf Tract, Hurley, a student at John A. Coleman High School; and Merry W. Kaune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kaune of Sawkill Road, a student at Kingston High School.

Selected on the basis of their scores in a December 2 homemaking knowledge and attitudes examination for which a record 646,041 senior girls in 15,040 of the nation's high schools were enrolled, the young women are now eligible for state and national honors. Each will also receive a specially designed silver charm from General Mills, sponsor of the annual educational program.

Helen Carla Prince, known as Carla by her friends, was born in Washington, D.C. She attended St. Ursula's Academy in Kingston and is now a senior at Coleman High School.

In the fall, Carla will enter the College of New Rochelle where she will study for a career as either a high school teacher or in the field of psychology.

A counsellor in training at camp in Canada last summer, she expects to return again this year.

Carla is interested in skiing, is Student Council representative of the senior class, active on school newspaper, yearbook, Spanish Club, and is a Heart Fund volunteer.

The oldest of five children, she has always been helpful at home with cooking and taking care of the younger children.

Merry W. Kaune was born in U.S. Army hospital at Camp Truscott, Austria, to American parents who were both Army officers in World War II. She attended elementary schools in Germany, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Fort George G. Meade, Md.; Mohawk, N.J.; Eatontown, N.J.; and Kingston. Her father is a retired S/Major and Res. Captain with more than 20 years active military service.

After considerable thought, Merry decided to apply for the Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing Program (WRAIN).

As a result of having resided in military installations for the first 10 years of her life, she is looking forward to active military duty with enthusiasm. Based on her examination of the WRAIN program, she considers it to be the "highest level of education obtainable for anyone pursuing a life in the field of Army nursing."

She would like to attain the advance level of training needed to teach a medical subject or to specialize in a more advance line such as pediatrics. Aware that her acceptance as a student of the WRAIN program incurs an obligation to serve in the U.S. Army, she accepts this as a "welcome opportunity to serve my country and to gain valuable experience in my chosen profession."

Merry is a Girl Scout and has held memberships in both the YWCA and YMCA. While a member of YMCA, she completed a course in Camp Counseling and as a member of Girl Scouts earned her Junior Life Saving certificate.

Confirmed as a member of Episcopal Church, she is now active in Fair Street Reformed Church. During her high school sophomore year, she voluntarily tutored scholastically slow children at Kingston Children's Home and last summer taught in the Head Start Program.

Test papers of all school winners in the state are currently undergoing additional judging, and a State Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named in March. She will be awarded a $1,500 college scholarship, with the second-ranking girl in the state receiving a $500 educational grant. Additionally, first-place winners from the 51 states and the District of Columbia—together with advisors from their schools — will receive an expense-paid educational tour of Washington, D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. this spring. Climax of the tour will be naming of the 1970 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow, whose scholarship will be increased to $5,000. Three runners-up will also be selected and will be awarded $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships. National judging will center on personal observation and interviews during the tour.

Begun by General Mills in the 1954-55 school year, the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow is designed to emphasize the importance of home-making as a career. During its 16-year history, more than seven million young women have been enrolled in the program and scholarship grants total approximatley one and three quarter million. The Betty Crocker Search is the only national scholarship program exclusively for high school senior girls, and has, each year since 1954-55, been placed on the approved list of national contests and activities of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals.

The test which forms the basis for selection of winners is prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Chicago educational testing organization which is responsible for all judging. Schools of State Homemakers of Tomorrow are awarded sets of Encyclopedia Britannica by Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc.

Kingston AAUW Studies Pollution

Apropos of its current theme "This Beleagured Earth — Can Man Survive?" The Kingston branch of the American Association of University Women presented Harry F. Edinger, P.E., director of environmental sanitation, Ulster County Health Department, as guest speaker Tuesday evening, Feb. 10, at 8 p.m. in the Kingston YWCA.

Mr. Edinger, was graduated from Tufts with a degree of Civil Engineer and received a Master's degree from Harvard in Sanitary Engineering. He holds the title of Licensed Professional Engineer and was employed by the New York State Department of Health at the Middletown District Office in 1936. In November 1937, he opened the Kingston District Office with Dr. Chant and transferred to the Ulster County Health Department, upon its founding in January 1947. Except for two years as Sanitary Engineer in the Sanitary Corps of the Army, Mr. Edinger has continued in the position of Director of Environmental Sanitation to the present.

Mr. Edinger discussed water pollution on the county level.

Project ABATES or Ambassadors to Bring Action Through Environmental Study — is a group study — action plan to encourage citizen activity in water pollution abatement and is sponsored by the New York State Department of Health. Local AAUW is contemplating a venture into this field. ABATES is an outgrowth of the Pure Waters Program launched by Governor Nelson Rockefeller in 1965 which was voted for unanimously by State Legislators and incorporated into public law in May 1965.

The ABATES plan was developed to give citizens a sense of direction and to present a way for citizens to join with their neighbors to hasten a cleanup of our environment. It is a scheme to understand the problems through study and to learn solutions, to communicate with others and to plan action to promote a better environment. The project is designed to eventually encompass all segments of the environment.

Ambassadors are the volunteers who have completed four study sessions and are committed to help bring and cooperation between local leaders and citizens. A study packet is available for any group of 10-20 people who will meet together, study, discuss, plan and act to promote better water quality management and is designed for use in four 2-hour study sessions. We are now at the halfway mark in the Pure Waters Program, but much remains to be done by 1972.

Nine statewide organizations have incorporated the study plan in their program for the year, all sharing a common goal — Pure Waters for New York State. Those organizations sponsoring and promoting ABATES include: American Association of University Women; Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, Incorporated; League of Women Voters of New York State; New York State Citizens Tie-Line; New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers, Incorporated; New York State Conservation Council, Incorporated; New York State Federation of Home Bureaus; New York State Federation of Women's Clubs; and the New York State Grange.

One of the legislative principals adopted by the New York State Division of AAUW at its 1968 Convention was the support of measures for conservation, and the control and improvement of our environment. By participation in Project ABATES, which seems tailormade for an organization of women who have always been concerned with education and the need to study before taking action, AAUW members through study of this program, will become informed and in turn may awaken a similar concern in others for Pure Waters by 1972.

Demonstrating concern on the local level, Mrs. Joseph Kearney, Jr., Kingston AAUW program chairman, attended a day-long seminar at the State Capitol in Albany, which was held on October 22, 1969 and served as the official introduction of ABATES. Dwight F. Metzler, Deputy commissioner of Environmental Health Services, presented the welcoming address in the Red Room and Paul W. Eastman, Assistant Commissioner, Division of Pure Waters, spoke on Project ABATES and introduced Hollis S. Ingraham, M.D., Commissioner of Health of the State Health Department. Those participating, including representatives of the nine sponsoring organizations previously mentioned, enjoyed a luncheon held at DeWitt Clinton Ballroom and a discussion on Clean Air by Alexander Rihm, Jr., Assistant Commissioner Division of Department of Air Resources. The afternoon session covered implementation of Project ABATES.

Co-Hostesses at the AAUW Kingston branch meeting, Tuesday evening were Mrs. Fred R. Port, Kingston and Mrs. Othman Abu-Gheida, Stone Ridge.

INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING was the theme for Tuesday night's dinner-meeting of the Ulter County Business and Professional Women's Club. Mrs. Jane Bromberg (L) who recently returned from a tour of United Nations projects in Africa, was guest speaker. A member of the United Nations Association and chairman of the Woodstock League of Women Voters United Nations Study Group, Mrs. Bromberg spoke about her visit to Ghana, Liberia, Senegal and Morocco. Pictured with her are (L-R) Ardeth Eckert, BPW dinner chairman, and Virginia Neher, club president. Club members also enjoyed a Valentine theme complete with awards during the entertainment portion of the evening. These arrangements were made for the club by Lucille Noble, BPW member. Westchester, Heading for UCCC, Drubs OC

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

VALHALLA

It had to be the put-on of the season. Coach Ralpl Arietta of Westchester Community College protesting that he was "scared to death" about upcoming Mid-Hudson Conference basketball games with Orange County and Ulster Community.

"Well, Coach Arietta survived the first half of his scare in pretty good style here Wednesday night, as his ram-paging squad routed Orange, 111-70 for WCC's 24th victory in 25 contests and its fourth win against one defeat in the Mid-Hudson Conference.

Led by John Thomas' 22 points (his seasonal average) Westchester demolished a good Orange team with surprising ease. This is the same Orange squad that had battled Ulster until three minutes before bowing 73-69 at the municipal auditorium in Kingston.

Now, Coach Arietta must survive the other half of his alleged nightmare Friday night against Ulster in the Senators' home lair.

The aggressive, young Westchester coach quickly unleashed a familiar theme, no variation on other themes expounded by other UCCC opponents this season.

"We're going to come up there and try to give them a battle," said Arietta, "Ulster County is the best team in the conference and I think the best in Region XV."

Are you listening, Coach Mike Perry? There's more coming.

"I think Jerry Moss and Glenn Berry make up the best 1-2 punch in the conference," Arietta added.

Arietta unwittingly (or was it?) overlooked the fact that he has some pretty good combinations of his own. His 5-foot-9 John Thomas is the team's leading scorer with 22-point average. Coach Perry, who scouted the Westchester-Orange contest is pretty high on Thomas. "He's a tremendous ballplayer," says Perry.

Coaches from three major colleges must think so, too. They were on hand scouting Thomas and the other Westchester lads. New York University, Quinnipiac of Connecticut and Marist of Poughkeepsie would like to see Thomas on their campus.

Westchester was quick and sharp from the opening tap against Orange. With Roger Howard hitting 13 points, John Thomas 12 and Washington 10, the visitors jumped to a big 48-27 halftime lead.

When the night was over, Howard had racked up 21 points and Washington 20. Iasillo, the big center, dunked 16 markers.

Jay Quimbly led Colt scorers with 21 points, followed by Mike Dugan with 11, Steve Falkowitz and Charlie Levine, with 10 each.

Orange County, incidentally, will host formerly nationally ranked Broome Tech Friday night.

(Special to Freeman)

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Ulster County Community College of Stone Ridge, N. Y., dropped one notch to 14th place in the National Junior College Athletic Association's (NJCAA) weekly basketball ratings this week.

Ulster, undefeated leader of the Mid-Hudson Conference in New York State, was 13th a week ago. The New York team received one first place vote worth 10 points and scattered support from two other regions.

The only other New York State team to be ranked is SUNY at Canton which has moved from No. 20 to 15th place, just below Ulster. Canton had a 15-1 record at the time of the voting and collected 17 points. Ulster had a 17-2 record.

Vincennes University of Vincennes, Indiana, continued to hold the top spot in the NJC poll, having completed a sweep of a four-game road trip into Florida by defeating Chipola JC, 108-80, and Gulf Coast, 102-97.

Davidson Cats Shake Off Rigor Mortis

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just when rigor mortis was about to set in the Davidson Wildcats proved to be a most healthy corpse.

"We had taken so much criticism that I guess we were a little mad," said sophomore star Bryan Adrian after the Wildcats ended second-ranked South Carolina's 17-game winning streak 68-62 Wednesday night. "All the sports writers in our area kept saying we were dead. We decided to prove to them we were still alive."

After the first half Davidson looked far from alive. The Wildcats were colder than an air-conditioned icebox as they sank only six of 23 shots and trailed 29-19. But they connected on 16-of-23 in the second half, with Adrian scoring 22 of his 26 points and Mike Maloy, Doug Cook and Jerry Kroll bottling up South Carolina's towering front line.

John Roche was Carolina's only offensive threat with 34 points, including 16 of 16 at the foul line. Maloy held 6-foot-10 Tom Owens, the leading rebounder in the Atlantic Coast Conference, to two points and five rebounds.

"It was great defense by our club and a tremendous second half by Adrian that was the key to victory," said Terry Holland, rookie coach of 13th-ranked Davidson. "We have a great deal of respect for South Carolina, but we were ready for them."

A disappointed Frank McGuire, knowing his team likely will drop a notch or two in next week's poll, gave Davidson full credit.

"We played a very experienced and very aggressive basketball team that simply outplayed us," he said. "Give them credit for a beautiful job. Davidson had position inside on us all night. Maloy played a tremendous game and kept our big man, Owens, away from the boards all night."

St. Bonaventure was the only other Top Twenty team in action and the fourth-ranked Bonnies trimmed Seton Hall 103-83 behind Bob Lanier's 37 points. The Bonnies trailed by five midway through the first half but reeled off nine straight points to take the lead for good.

Pete Maravich settled for 38 points, 10 below his nation-leading average, but Louisiana State still beat Florida 94-85.

Piston Pete's output gave him 3,244 for his career and pushed him past Dick Barnett of Tennessee State for third place on the all-time career list. He trails the No. 2 man, Joe Miller of Alderson-Broaddus, by 50.

Russell Lee scored 33 points but Marshall needed key tallies by Blaine Henry and Pat Brady to upset heavily favored Ohio U. 93-88. Greg McDivitt paced the losers with 27. Duke edged Wake Forest 67-65 in an ACC contest.

A Bad, Bad Situation

Entries Lagging For State Tourney

By CHARLES J. TIANO

KINGSTON

Whatever happened to the great hometown spirit of the Kingston area bowlers. What is going to become of the 300-team dream for the 45th annual New York State champions which get underway in our town on April 4.

With a mere eight (8) days remaining before the deadline that cannot be extended (as in the case of local tournaments) less than 60 teams have filed entries from the host association, KBA, of course.

Statewide entries are nearing the half-way mark in Kingston's goal for a 300-team entry. But Kingston enthusiasm for the tournament is inexplicably absent.

Chance at Big Prize

Maybe many local bowlers don't realize that they will be competing on their own lanes for a share of a prize list that is expected to exceed $150,000. Never before in Kingston bowling history has a prize list of such magnitude been dangled before local bowlers.

Bowlers who never participated in a state meet, or city tournament, for that matter, should take heart in the fact that in 1966 a Kingston team with a 757 average won the championship in the handicap division to take home a $1,500 prize and set an all-time scoring record.

The team, Whispell's Construction, compiled a gross score of 3327. The team had as its members Whitey and Carl Stoutenburgh, Allan Robinson, Ken Whispell and Big Bob Bush.

Tournament Manager Addison Jones, who campaigned hard to bring the tournament to Kingston, and city entries chairman William Mohr are hopeful a late surge of entries may turn the tide.

But unless this happens fast, Kingston may find itself in the unenviable position of fielding the fewest number of teams ever by a host city in a state tournament.

Last Minute Rush

Maybe everybody is waiting until the last minute, but time is running out. At this point even 200 teams would look good.

If the teams that normally compete in the city association tournament just transferred their entry fees to the state, it would be a nucleus of about 100 teams. But even this isn't happening.

Kingston had to live down some unhappy memories of the first time it hosted a state championship. It was not easy. But unless the present disgraceful response is improved in a hurry, it might be another 100 years before another state tournament came Kingston's way.

It's a sad, sad situation, but there are still eight days left to make amends. Eight days to prove to the state that Kingston is a good bowling town.

If we blow this one, let's just forget that a state tournament even exists.

OCS Grapplers Win

SAUGERTIES

Onteora High School's wrestling team toppled Saugerties High for the second time this season, this time by a 27-21, decision. Onteora now has a 3-6 record and Saugerties sports a 7-3 mark.

"The biggest surprise of the match was the pin by Don Todd over Rich Lack," said Coach Joe Friedel of Onteora. "Todd lost to Lack early this year by a decision and he gave us a big lift with his victory," added Friedel.

Todd a 155 pounder pinned his opponent in 4:41. The fastest pin of the match came in the 185 pound class. Steve Bernard of Saugerties grappled Frank Turck to the mat in just 44 seconds.

The DCSL championship meet starts this Friday at John Jay High in Wappingers, beginning at 5 p. m. The semi-finals and finals will start at 1 p. m. Saturday.

Celtics Kayo N.Y., 125-118

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"If a guy punches you in the nose, you want to punch him back."

With that little bit of simple reasoning, Coach Tom Heinsohn sent his struggling Boston Celtics against the short-handed, but still powerful New York Knicks Wednesday night, and the Celtics kayoed the Knicks 125-118 in overtime in a National Basketball Association game.

It was just two weeks ago that the Celtics came into Madison Square Garden and were run off the court by 33 points, prompting a closed-door Boston meeting and subsequently numerous fines.

Although the players shrugged off the thought of revenge, Heinsohn felt it had something to do with the Celtics' fourth victory in five games and New York's second loss in 13.

"Certainly they remembered that game," he said after they overcame Willis Reed's 40 points for the Knicks as John Havlicek scored 30 and Jo Jo White 26 for Boston.

In other games, Milwaukee downed Phoenix 127-120, Cincinnati stopped Detroit 124-113, Atlanta rolled over San Diego 155-131, Los Angeles tripped San Francisco 125-115 and Seattle shaded Baltimore 119-117.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana outlasted Washington 142-132 and Miami halted Los Angeles 127-119.

With Walt Frazier ill and Bill Bradley out with a sprained ankle for New York, the Celtics took advantage by becoming the first team to beat the Knicks three times this season.

They pulled ahead for good on baskets by Bailey Howell and Havlicek at the start of the overtime, and White and Howell each scored four more and Havlicek two.

Quarter Horse Bill Faces Rough Going in the Senate

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A bill to establish quarter horse racing in the state raced through the Assembly, but may be a long shot in the Senate.

A spokesman for Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, R-Niagara Falls, would say only that the matter would be taken up in a conference of GOP senators next week. Brydges has opposed the bill in past sessions.

The bill, by Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane, R-Windham, was approved, 86-47, in the Assembly Wednesday without debate — in sharp contrast to last year's charges of "vote buying" when it was barely approved after being resurrected from an initial defeat.

The bill would allow pari-mutuel betting at five quarter horse tracks to be established in the state, to be supervised by a new three-man commission in the same way thoroughbred and harness racing are now controlled.

Tax rates on betting and admissions would be the same as for thoroughbred racing, and Lane estimated the state would earn at least $10 million to $20 million a year.

No track could be built within 50 miles of existing thoroughbred or harness tracks, unless the tracks consented. Albany and Suffolk counties would be exempted from the 50-mile rule.

Highland, Onteora Winners in UCAL

PINE BUSH

The Ulster County Athletic League basketball picture remained unchanged Wednesday night, as Highland High trounced Pine Bush, 75-55, and Onteora toppled Wallkill, 77-62.

Highland, now 8-2 in the league, meets Rondout Valley (7-1) Friday in a game that could settle the UCAL race. Onteora (6-3) staved off virtual elimination by its impressive win over Wallkill.

In other UCAL encounters Friday, New Paltz visits Onteora and Marlboro hosts Pine Bush. Wallkill's loss to OCS was its ninth straight without a win. Pine Bush is 3-5.

Highland jumped to an 18-10 lead over Pine Bush in the first quarter, got a 14-14 second quarter standoff, then broke the game open with 24-18 bulge in the third quarter.

Perry Monroe and Cristaldi collected 17 points each for Highland, Mike Brock fired 23 for the Bushmen.

Onteora stunned Wallkill with a 24-9 first quarter, and the losers were never able to overcame that early deficit. Ed Mercer led Onteora, which placed five men in double figures. Bob AcAfee had 23 for Wallkill.

In Jayvee contests, Highland topped Pine Bush, 75-55, and Onteora won over Wallkill, 53-42.

Kellogg Captures Cross Country Title

ROSENDALE

Charles Kellogg of Putney, Vt., a member of the 1968 Winter Olympic team, set a new course record in winning the 1970 New York State Cross Country championship race.

Kellogg streaked over the 15 kilometer course in 50 minutes, 56 seconds, fastest time the race has ever been run. The Olympian had the benefit of extremely fast course conditions on a hard, granular track which made waxing for the race relatively easy.

Bill Purcell of Lebanon, N. H. was runnerup in the three-man Class A field in 52.51. Raimo Ahti, former national champion from Fitchburgh, Mass. who placed third, broke a ski half way around the first loop and ran about two and a half kilos on one ski before he could get a replacement. His time nonetheless was 5th best for the day.

Nigerian Relief Supplies Sitting at Lagos Airport

LAGOS (UPI)—American officials report $12 million in relief supplies sent by President Nixon for sick and starving civil war refugees is going to waste in Lagos.

Great quantities of the food, blankets and lamps, many of the portable relief hospitals, and most of the jeeps and trucks sent from the United States still sit at the airport.

"There's nothing we can do about it," one U.S. officials said Wednesday. "Once these goods land at Ikeja (the airport), they become the property of the Nigerian Rehabilitation and Reconstruction Commission.

"And because they are so busy at this time, there's obviously little feedback of information on what happens to the equipment."

By contrast, nearly all the British aid airlifted to Nigeria immediately after secessionist Biafra fell has been distributed among war refugees in the Ibo heartland that was Biafra.

The American airlift began on Nixon's orders two weeks ago and continued Wednesday with the arrival of four helicopters to be used to get supplies to the former war zones.

According to the U.S. officials, none of the 63 trucks that have come in from the United States have left Lagos and only 20 of the 50 jeeps have been transferred to Port Harcourt, the relief center.

Seven 200-bed portable hospitals were brought in on the U.S. flights and five of them still are at the airport, they said.

No reliable figures are available on how much of the 4,900 tons of food or how many of the 10,000 blankets, 10,000 lamps and 140 power generators have reached the front but much of it is still in Lagos.

A spokesman for the Nigerian commission blamed "some logistics problems" for the holdup in distributing the U.S. aid.

"The program is going smoothly," he said, "but we're receiving aid from so many sources, there is bound to be some logistics problems. You can rest assured that relief is effective throughout the former secessionist areas."

Dear Abby

Gift Makes Difference?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is very much in love with an older man. He is very well-to-do and is known to everyone for his generosity and kindness. He has children by his deceased wife and is extremely considerate of them. He is constantly giving them expensive gifts.

This man professes to love my daughter. He calls her and sees her often. He has told her that she is the only person in the world he truly loves, yet he has never given her any kind of gift. Not even at Christmas time. (She gave HIM a gift.)

My daughter thinks that this man can do no wrong, and she idolizes him anyway. I am apprehensive. What do you think?

APPREHENSIVE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think that you would not be nearly so "apprehensive" had this man given your daughter a costly "bauble" for Christmas. Perhaps he declined to do so at this point because with his reputation for "gererosity" he didn't want her to feel that he was "buying" her love. Since your daugher "idolizes" him anyway, don't be so quick to point out his clay feet. They may be gold.

DEAR ABBY: Just a word to that mother who was lamenting the fact that her daughter was pregnant and unmarried. She agonized that she would never be able to hold her first grandchild in her arms.

Well, Abby, if that mother would just pull herself together and face facts, she COULD hold her first grandchild in her arms. She should welcome her daughter back, accept the child, and help bring it up, and help her daugher to make something of herself.

May I say that I will never hold a grandchild in MY arms, but not for the same reason as this lady. You see, my ONLY child is a homosexual.

Tell that lady I would rather be in HER shoes any day. She doesn't know what trouble is.

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: If you would face your situation realistically, you may come to the conclusion that while your lot is hard to accept it is not the most tragic in the world.

Many homosexuals live useful, happy lives. It is possible that a mother who has lost her child in death could conceivably be happy to change shoes with you.

DEAR ABBY: I have long been an admirer of yours, but I never thought I'd be writing to you. Perhaps I can help "Desperate," the middle-aged woman who felt that she was close to insanity because her husband was having an affair. May I try? I know how she feels because I have been there. You have some good years left. Use them. If you have an education, use it. If you haven't, get one, and get it in something marketable and suitable for an older person. Hospitals and social services are begging for qualified help, and you don't have to be a cutie in a miniskirt to get a job either. Help people in mental institutions. Don't end up in one.

Stiffen your backbone. Condition yourself not to care too much about what your husband is doing, you can't do anything about it anyway. But learn to care for something YOU can change. Yourself. Hate him if you must. Sometimes hate provides the push that love cannot.

And while I have your ear, Abby, I want to tell you that you once gave the best advice I ever had: "If you act like a doormat, expect people to walk on you."

Well, I was, and they did. But not anymore.

(sign me) "MAKING IT"

CONFIDENTIAL TO "A READER IN ORMOND BEACH, FLA.": Thank you for your intelligent though critical letter. You are right. I was wrong. I appreciated your writing. I can learn more from thoughtful criticism than flattering priase

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Horoscope — By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY FEBRUARY 13, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Review ideas. Some are based on fiction rather than fact. Read your paper. Add to knowledge. Be sure your information is obtained from reliable source. You can make discoveries of value.

TAUAUS (Apri 20-May 20): Obtain hint from ARIES message. Some who make claims have nothing with which to back them. Avoid wishful thinking. You can make money, but method is apt to be unorthodox.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cycle is higher; results accrue from efforts. Key is to be aware of what you need. Those in authority side with you. But there seems to be doubt about exact procedure. Take time to analyze.

CANCER (July 21-July 22): You may have to terminate some areas of activity. Do so with enthusiasm. You will replace what appears to be a loss. Letdown is but temporary. Respond accordingly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Can be exciting, creative day because of new contacts, opportunities. Accent on fulfillment of desires. Enjoy accolades, but plan one step ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sspt. 22): Advancement indicated if you are not bogged down by past. Make way for furture. A legal agreement connected with property, duty is not as binding as might be imagined.

LIBRA Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your thoughts are far away from present environment. Best to leave details to others. Be versatile. Accent on publishing, writing and advertising. Spread your views.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You find out truth about some co-workers, associates. This is not necessarily negative. But you will have to change some procedures. Do so in thorough manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You tend to see persons, situations in nonrealistic light. Some who make claims of loyalty are mere talkers. Realize this and plan accordingly. Don't sign away anything of value.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Strive to rectify misunderstanding. Spotlight harmony. Applies specifically to one who has served you, worked with you and is loyal. Message increasingly clear by tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You find yourself free of some major obligations. You can plan along more creative lines. Accent on children, affairs of heart. You are rewarded for past efforts.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friendly advice can lead to solid gain. Perceive this and respond accordingly. Don't shirk responsibility. What you think is burden can be a real asset.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you can be methodical, but you also are imaginative. You revere the facts. Accuracy is your goal. Current period is one featuring change, possible travel. Relations with opposite sex are highlighted. If single, marriage may be on horizon. If married, there could be addition to family.

TEEN FORUM

A GOOD GIRL: (Q.) I got my driver's license about eight months ago. I was wild. I hung around wild girls. I am not a virgin any more.

I have met a nice girl who has never been out. I am sure she is a virgin. I really dig her. She's clean. Do you think I should stop seeing her? Do you think if I teach her what love really is that I'll lose my respect for her?—A Wild One in Washington, D. C.

(A.) She's a nice, clean girl. And you respect her for this. You may not lose this respect if you do with her what you've done with other girls. But you will lose something magic you have right now.

Sexual love is beautiful in the right setting. You've never known it that way, so you, too, have something to learn. Think twice about becoming a teacher just now. This is a good girl you've found. Don't change her into a bad girl.

SEAT BELTS: (comment) I read about the girls who wore seat belts and weren't hurt in an accident. Seat belts do save lives. But there are also times when seat belts can end lives. I have seen people trapped and burned to death in cars because they had on seat belts and couldn't unfasten them.

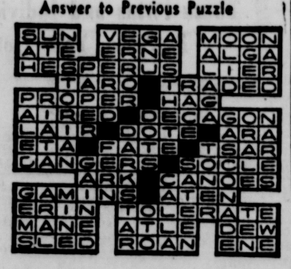

The belts worn diagonally from shoulder to hip offer better protection because a wearer can slip out from under one. —A Shoulder Belt Fan in New York City.

(A.) Thank you for writing. People not wearing either seat or shoulder belts can be trapped in a car. The consensus is that a person wearing both a seat belt and a shoulder belt is safest.

'Ice Capades' A Color Treat

NEW YORK (AP) — "Highlights of the Ice Capades" on NBC Wednesday night was ablaze with sparkling color and was a visual treat.

Ice shows have become more elaborate as more families have obtained color sets.

And color is increasingly important to full enjoyment of TV spectacles. It is unfortunate than fewer than 24 million of the 55 million TV-equipped homes have color sets.

In content, the Ice Capades was practially indistinguishable from other ice shows. It had the soloist, the duet, the clown and of course the production numbers, plus elaborate scenery and sparkling costumes.

There were also the usual nonskating stars, in this case Bobbie Gentry and Lorne Greene who walked around the slippery surface with caution and sang acceptably.

These programs are enormously popular with family audiences. NBC's recent circus program and Peggy Fleming's ice show landed on top of their respective Nielsen lists and so, probably will this most recent entry.

CBS and Jackie Gleason are now in one of their occasional periods of glaring at each other It is contract renewal time and there is some evidence that the Great One is not in as good a bargaining position as usual.

Gleason's Nielsen ratings have not been particularly impressive this season, particularly on nights he has presented variety hours instead of the "Honeymooners." His program, too, is among the most expensive to produce—and the Florida-based star turns out only 20 shows a year.

Next week, both CBS' "Merv Griffin Show" and NBC's "Tonight Show" will originate in Hollywood. Griffin, who has been talking to movie stars on the coast for the past month, moves on to Las Vegas Feb. 23 for six shows before returning to his home base in New York. Johnny Carson will spend two weeks, starting Monday, working out of NBC's Burbank studios.

The film studio that produced NBC's recent "World Premiere" drama "My Sweet Charlie" is so impressed by its reception that it slapped it right into a New York moviehouse for a run and is now busily pitching a series starring Patty Duke to a network for next season.

The film, with Miss Duke playing a white girl in trouble who is befriended by a Negro, racked up the biggest audience for any movie broadcast this season and drew critics' praise. The question is whether audiences will pay to see something that could have been viewed for nothing.

A No-risk Play for Grand Slam

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Back in 1935, the Indianapolis team of Larry Welch, Rolly Buck, Joe Cain and Edson Wood won the board-a-match team championship of the American Contract Bridge League.

One reason for their success was that they used the new-fangled Blackwood Convention as invented by their fellow townsman, Easley Blackwood.

Joe Cain was going to some slam the moment his partner gave him a positive response to his two-diamond opening. If Ed Wood, sitting North, had shown two kings, Joe would have counted to 13 tricks at no-trump; when he showed just one king, Joe settled for the diamond grand slam.

At the worst, either grand slam would depend on a club finesse. In diamonds, Joe felt that there might be some extra play.

He called for dummy's queen of hearts at trick one. There was nothing to gain by not playing it.

Then he played his ace of diamonds and noted that this drew both the adverse trumps.

Then he cashed the ace of clubs and, when both opponents followed, he had found a way to make all the tricks without the club finesse. He simply cashed the king of clubs and ace of spades, entered dummy with the seven of trumps, discarded the jack of clubs on the king of spades, ruffed a club, entered dummy with the nine of trumps, ruffed another club, entered dummy with the jack of trumps and discarded his six of hearts on dummy's last club.

Hanoi Downgrades Paris Talks

Planes Go After Enemy Guns in Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — American warplanes attacked Wednesday into Cambodia, hitting gun positions that shot down one U.S. helicopter and opened fire on others coming to the rescue, U.S. spokesmen said today.

The spokesmen said the incident occurred 22 miles west of Saigon in a border area where North Vietnamese troops have been building up for weeks.

An OH6 light observation helicopter flying on the Vietnam side was struck by ground fire from Cambodia, exploded and crashed in flames, spokesmen said. The two crewmen were missing and believed killed.

Rescue 'copters that arrived later to search the area came under heavy ground fire from inside Cambodia, the report said, and U.S. warplanes came in to hit back.

It was the first time the United States has acknowledged attacks inside Cambodia since Dec. 4 and 5, when air strikes were flown against targets across the border in retaliation for a North Vietnamese attack on a South Vietnamese post.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, in Vietnam on a three-day tour, told newsmen Wednesday the United States would keep attacking North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units in North Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos if Allied troops are attacked from such sanctuaries.

"We will continue to follow a policy of protective reaction," Laird said.

Elsewhere on the battlefronts, U.S. Marines killed 17 guerrillas with the aid of artillery and fighter-bomber strikes south of Da Nang. There were no American casualties in the fighting.

In a day of light action, U.S. helicopter gunship pilots reported killing another 17 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops in two engagements. One such action near Duc Pho 92 miles southeast of Da Nang resulted in eight guerrillas killed.

Another involved gunship crews of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and resulted in the killing of nine Communist troops one mile from the Cambodian border and 75 miles north of Saigon. No American casualties were reported in either engagement.

In Paris, meanwhile, North Vietnam sent its No.3-ranking delegate to the Vietnam peace talks today, downgrading its delegation to the lowest level since the conference opened.

U.S. Ambassador Philip C. Habib accused the Communist side of avoiding discussions toward bringing peace and implored them to begin talking seriously.

Nguyen Minh Vy, No. 3-ranking member of the Hanoi delegation, led his group into the 54th session.

Xuan Thuy, the delegation chairman, has been boycotting the meetings to protest what he insists is President Nixon's downgrading of the talks by naming no successor to Henry Cabot Lodge who resigned Dec. 6.

Col. Ha Van Lau, Thuy's assistant, was recalled unexpectedly to Hanoi Wednesday night.

Habib, who has headed the Allied delegation since Lodge left, went into the session saying he sought "to engage the other side in discussions of mutual actions which could be taken to bring peace in Vietnam."

Habib said the Communist delegations so far "have avoided such discussion."

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations have stood for nearly a year on their original demands for an unconditional U.S. and Allied troop withdrawal and the ouster of the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu from Saigon and replacement of it with a coalition government.

Thuy said again he would have no contacts with the American delegation until someone he considered a ranking diplomat was named in place of Lodge. He does not consider Habib of such standing.

Asked whether he would continue his boycott if American policy changed while Habib was still heading the American delegation.

"We will see then what needs to be done," he said.

Egypt's Heartland Hit Again

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli jets blasted Egyptian military targets north and south of Cairo and a radar site 24 miles west of the Suez Canal in two raids today, the Israeli military command reported.

An Israeli spokesman said the planes first attacked equipment and ammunition stores at El Khanqa, 12 miles north of Cairo, and the radar site at Jebel Awebed, on the Cairo-Suez railroad. Two hours later, the spokesman said, Israeli planes hit a military camp near Dahshur, 23 miles south of Cairo on the Nile, and military targets in the central sector of the canal.

All the Israeli planes returned safely, the spokesman said. Pilots reported accurate hits in both strikes.

It was the 10th Israeli air raid on targets around Cairo since Jan. 7. Both El Khanqa and Dahshur have been hit previously.

The command in Tel Aviv also said a mobile Israeli army canteen was found abandoned along the southern sector of the canal Wednesday, and its two occupants apparently had been abducted by Egyptians. The Egyptians claimed earlier they had crossed the canal, wounded 20 Israeli soldiers and captured two in an ambush on an army patrol.

The Israeli spokesman said the Egyptian probably were referring to the canteen truck and denied there had been an attack on a patrol.

The Israeli army put a dusk-to-dawn curfew on the entire Gaza Strip which was seized from Egypt in the 1967 war and for 300 yards out to sea. No reason was given, but Gaza has been the scene of numerous sabotage attacks on vehicles and rail lines.

In Amman, the Jordanian capital, tension eased following a meeting between King Hussein and Arab guerrilla leaders who had vowed to resist with force new security measures imposed by Hussein's government. The king assured the guerrillas that the new measures were not aimed at restricting their freedom of action. An official announcement quoted a commando representative as saying the conference was a positive one."

Security forces patrolled Amman's streets today, and roadblocks at the city limits checked cars for arms. Scattered shooting broke out Wednesday night, and the Al Fatah guerrilla movement claimed in a broadcast from Cairo that several Jordanian soldiers had been wounded in a clash. But the government issued a special communique denying this.

The crisis resulted from government orders banning the carrying of arms in Amman and the storage of explosives. The guerrillas claimed this was an attempt to liquidate their movement as the prelude to a political settlement with Israel.

Calley's Fair Trial— Judge to Rule Today

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— The military judge in the murder case against Lt. William L. Calley Jr., said he would try to decide today whether Calley's right to a fair trial has been prejudiced by massive pretrial publicity alleging a Vietnam massacre.

Denial of a defense motion to dismiss the chages against the 26-year-old Army officer from Miami, Fla., on the grounds news coverage would prejudice and military jurors, would swing the doors open almost all the way toward a court-martial.

The current pretrial on defense motions to dismiss was to end in its fourth day today after arguments by opposing sides on the free press-fair trial motion. Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the judge, said he would try his best to be ready with an oral decision afterward, but he couldn't promise.

Wednesday he did come up with two denials from the bench.

He denied a motion the pending court-martial lacked jurisdiction "over the person" of Calley. He also turned down a defense motion to dismiss because the charge was not specific enough.

Kennedy ruled the specification properly followed the Army manual of courts-martial. The four counts charged Calley premeditately with a rifle murdered "not less than 102 Oriental human beings" in My Lai 4 village in March, 1968.

The judge denied, as of this time, the defense motion to subpoena the secretaries of Defense and Army, and the Army Chief of Staff, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, in its attempt to show Calley could not get a fair military court trial because they—and President Nixon—exerted improper "command influence" against Calley.

Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott is commanding general here. He and all other officers here who had a hand in processing the case have testified in the last three days there was absolutely no high command influence involved in their decision.

Young and Old Americans

On Way to Help Castro

ST. STEPHEN, N. B. (UPI)— Busloads of weary Americans rolled across the Canadian border today, headed for a rendezvous with a cattle boat taking them to Cuba to help Fedel Castro harvest sugar cane.

A group of 50 spectators chanting "peace, peace" watched as the eight buses carrying about 300 persons passed through the border area from Maine to New Brunswick. Most of the men and women in the buses were young, but some were older.

Canadian border officials would not let the passengers leave the buses nor would they allow journalists to talk to the passengers during the two hours it took for the proceedings.

Canadian officials at Windsor, across from Detroit, had refused to allow part of the group to enter Canada Monday because they had lied about their destination, saying they were on a ski holiday.

They are expected to go directly to St. John, 90 miles away, where the Cuban cattle boat Luis Arcos Bernes was expected sometime today. The boat, bringing back 212 Americans who have been in Cuba cutting sugar cane, was due Wednesday but 60 m.p.h. winds and high seas slowed it down.

Bruce Jacobs, 26, a former mathematics instructor at City College of New York, who said he was one of the organizers of the group, arrived in St. John ahead of the boat to organize the trip.

"Our group includes everybody from teen-agers to a lady 60 years old," he said. Jacobs added there are currently three international canecutting brigades in Cuba—"one from North Vietnam, another from North Korea and one from the United States."

He said the U.S. contingent includes "Negroes, Asiatics, Latinos, people from the ghettos, high school and college students, dropouts, and even some college students who will be getting school credits for the trip."

Jacobs did not elaborate on what colleges would grant academic credit for canecutting.

Called the "Venceremos (we will win) Brigade," they will spend two and a half months in the canefields of Cuba.

Those in the eight busloads crossing appeared tired from the trip. They carried knapsacks, sleeping bags and boxes of cookies. Many of the men had beards, most of the girls long hair.

DRAMATIC DEVELOPMENT MAKES ORDINARY ALUMINUM SIDING OLD-FASHIONED!

FLAWLESS NEW BEAUTY NEVER BEFORE POSSIBLE!
FLEXALUM LOK-ON PATENTED ALUMINUM SIDING
'BLANKET-OF-AIR' INSULATION
Extra air space between siding and your house provides improved insulation!
Be first in your neighborhood to enjoy the fabulous benefits of this latest advance from Flexalim! Ordinary aluminum siding becomes obsolete! The patented Lok-On Stringer is a special component nailed vertically to the house wall which automatically levels it. You get perfectly even panels — arrow-straight walls — and since there are no nails in any panel, your house is free from any objectionable expansion and contraction noises!
EXCLUSIVE! FLEXALUM Solid Circuit Positive Grounding . . . BUILT-IN LIGHTNING SHIELD AT NO EXTRA COST!
